

State May Use Radar, Air Patrol To Cut Road Slaughter

By ARCH DONOVAN
Star Staff Writer

A four-point program aimed at reducing the tremendous 1954 surge in the number of persons slaughtered on Nebraska highways was outlined here Friday.

The state's 1954 highway fatality count so far is 58, compared to 30 a year ago.

Gov. Robert Crosby, after a two hour conference, with representatives of all state departments dealing in any way with traffic safety, expressed confidence that an action campaign could be launched during the balance of the year to reduce highway fatalities.

Attending the conference were representatives of the Safety Patrol, attorney general, Highway Department, Motor Vehicle Division, Aeronautics Department and state superintendent's office.

Four suggestions that found favor of the group will be explored further with particular attention to just what action can be taken under present laws. The four immediate action studies are:

1. Transfer of operation of the truck weighing stations to civilian employees which would free
2. Use of civilians to give drivers' examinations which
3. Use of radar in traffic control. This has been under study by Col. C. J. Sanders for several months and he will set further experience records from other states.
4. Use of aircraft in patrolling highways. A large number of present patrolmen are licensed and experienced pilots. They would be able to clock speed of cars by section lines in most of the state. Plans have proven successful in other states. The governor will meet Monday with the Nebraska representatives to the White House Safety Congress to get any further ideas they may consider worthy.

"If we can get 20 to 22 additional men patrolling the highways that are now working at auxiliary services, I am confident we can make the people more conscious of traffic hazards and that they will drive more safely," the governor said.

"It is a tremendous educational undertaking to stop people from doing some of the things that are now causing accidents, but with a united effort and exploring all of the possibilities I believe we can reduce the present frightful death and injury toll."

Psychiatrists May Have Answer To Baffling One-Car Accidents

OMAHA (AP) — The answer to some of those baffling one-car accidents which involve a lone motorist may lie with the psychiatrists, a State University of Iowa professor said Friday.

The mishaps may be deliberate suicides covered up to look like an accident, Dr. Paul Huston, professor of psychiatry at the University of Iowa, explained.

The urge to drive off the road or into a bridge may be an indication the motorist was suffering from severe mental depression, he told a University of Nebraska College of Medicine and Nebraska Psychiatric Institute gathering.

Depression is a little-understood mental ailment which psychiatrists are finding strikes a major portion of the population at one time or another, he went on. In its most severe stages, it will result in suicide.

10 to 12 patrolmen to make highway work.

The office of the attorney general will immediately study to determine whether it is possible to turn these auxiliary functions over to civilian workers.

Use of radar in traffic control. This has been under study by Col. C. J. Sanders for several months and he will set further experience records from other states.

'Smear' Charge Hits U.S.

Guatemala Claims 'McCarthyism' Is Spreading

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—The undercover fight between the United States and Guatemala over Communism blazed into the open at the Inter-American Conference here Friday.

Guatemala's foreign minister, Guillermo Toriello, in a stinging 55-minute speech, attacked the Washington government's effort to bring up a resolution here against Communist intervention in the Western Hemisphere. He said it was a "smear" against his country and an "internationalization of McCarthyism, of book burning."

U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles lashed back in a statement a few hours later in which he accused the leftist government of Guatemala of backing down on its twice-pledged word to fight Communism, and declared the United States did not intend to let the "abusive" language used by Toriello obscure the Communist issue.

Dulles said Guatemala was repudiating declarations against Communism adopted by the Inter-American Conferences of 1948 and 1951 — declarations which Guatemala then supported.

After this exchange it was announced that the plenary session of the 20-nation conference that was scheduled for Saturday would not be held. Apparently this was an effort of conference leaders to let tempers cool.

Small Victory

However, the United States won one small victory immediately after the Political-Judicial Committee decided to make debate on Communism the No. 1 item on its agenda, though Guatemala, Argentina and Mexico wanted colonialism in the Western Hemisphere to get the top spot. The vote was 16 to 3.

Toriello, 41-year-old lawyer, landowner and self-styled capitalist who formerly was ambassador in Washington, said his country was making a great effort to "abolish feudalism, colonial practices and iniquitous exploitation" of its people. But, he said, "the privileged have unleashed against Guatemala the most iniquitous campaign and they have not been ashamed to resort to the most cowardly weapons to defame, deflect and smear one of the purest movements that this continent has ever seen."

The United States, he said, was pressuring the conference to investigate Red infiltration in this hemisphere and that this was designed to embarrass Guatemala and tag her with an "unjust" Communist label.

Toriello's speech won him 60 seconds of applause, nearly twice that accorded Dulles when he spoke Thursday. Some delegates said the Guatemalan used an approach that appealed to many Latin Americans.

Storage Problem: Key Grain Meet Set At Omaha

By JOHN SWANSON
Star Staff Writer

The eyes of the nation's huge grain belt, threatened with the most serious storage situation in history, will be focused on Omaha March 18.

Top agricultural officials and other interested agencies will gather then to set an effective course to deal with the critical grain storage problem.

C. W. Means of the Omaha Chamber of Commerce Agriculture Committee confirmed when contacted by The Lincoln Star Friday night that space had been arranged in the Paxton Hotel ballroom for 700 in an all-day meeting.

There were unconfirmed reports that Secretary of Agriculture Benson would be on hand for the conference.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture in Washington called the grain storage conference to discuss the grain storage problem with its field officials and representatives from state agricultural colleges, farm organizations and the grain and feed industry. Agriculture officials said they believed the meeting would be of national or at least regional scope.

The meeting will take place in Nebraska only weeks before the government expects to encounter in the state the worst wheat storage shortage in its history. This situation will develop when the government takes delivery on some 15,000,000 bushels of loan wheat from Nebraska farms. This delivery will make storage particularly severe in the Panhandle and will come only shortly before another new crop is harvested.

Such a situation in Nebraska and other states in the grain belt will lend a note of great urgency to the Omaha conference.

The Department of Agriculture Friday called upon farmers to store on farms another year about half a billion bushels of 1953-crop grains to help meet the problem. As an incentive, the department offered farmers storage payments to hold wheat, corn, oats, barley, grain, sorghums, rye and flaxseed stored under support programs.

Puerto Ricans Enter Pleas Of Innocence

WASHINGTON (AP)—Formal pleas of "innocent" were entered in U. S. District Court Friday for four Puerto Rican Nationalists accused of shooting down five congressmen in the House of Representatives Monday.

"I would like it to be charged that what I committed was the defense of my country," said Lolita Lebron, 34, in broken English. She describes herself as the ringleader in the attack.

"We came here to defend the independence of our country," chimed in Rafael Cancel Miranda, 25, another defendant.

The brief proceedings, calmly judicial, contrasted sharply with the wild scene in the House four days ago, when the floor was sprayed with pistol bullets from a public gallery.

U. S. marshals stood at all strategic spots in the courtroom to maintain order and guard against any new outbreak by Puerto Rican terrorists.

Mrs. Lebron was the first of the four asked to enter a plea. She appeared confused by the proceedings, but after a Spanish interpreter was called upon to help her she said:

Not Guilty Plea

"I would like to talk about it in one respect. I would like it to be charged that what I committed was the defense of my country."

"But you do enter a plea of not guilty?" Judge James W. Morris asked.

"Yes, on those grounds," Mrs. Lebron replied.

Judge Morris entered pleas of innocent for all four and set April 5 as the tentative date for their trial.

Mrs. Lebron, Miranda, Andres Figueroa Cordero, 28, and Irving Flores Rodriguez, 29, are each charged with five counts of assault with intent to kill and five counts of assault with a dangerous weapon.

The court confirmed their bonds at $100,000.

In asking for the steep bonds, U. S. Attorney Leo A. Rover stated that the Puerto Ricans face a possible maximum penalty of 75 years imprisonment. He called their attack "utterly ruthless."

Seized With Arms Cache

Two men identified by police as Roberto Oscar Acevedo, 36, (right, foreground), and Mario Cruz, (behind Acevedo wearing checkered cap) 34-year-old Cuban, are escorted by detectives from a store in New York where police discovered crates arms ready for shipment. Cache included nine cases of anti-tank guns, 25 Garand rifles and five cases of grenades. (AP Wirephoto Friday Night.)

Rifles, Grenades, Anti-Tank Guns In Arsenal

NEW YORK (AP)—A huge supply of American-made weapons was seized by New York police Friday in an upper West Side Manhattan store room.

Under arrest were two men, identified by police Commissioner Francis W. H. Adams as members of a Cuban organization opposed to the regime of Gen. Fulgencio Batista, president of Cuba.

The men were identified as Mario Cruz, 34, and Roberto Oscar Acevedo, 36, who speak only a smattering of English between them.

Adams announced he had ordered a roundup of known members of anti-Batista organizations after discovery of the crated arsenal which included mortar shells, anti-tank guns, Garand rifles, grenades and a big supply of shells for the firearms.

Adams described Cruz and Acevedo as "very intelligent" and said they also were "very unco-operative."

Thus far, the police commissioner said, seven known members of anti-Batista organizations have been taken into custody for questioning. They included six men and a woman.

Flying Squad

They were seized, Adams said, in a "flying squad" raid on the apartment of one of them. In the apartment, police said, were two placards which read:

"Wake up, America! Batista is a Communist dictator that has Cuba converted into a concentration camp.... The Cuba for Action Committee."

"Batista's Communist dictatorship violates the U.S. Articles No. 5 on the right of man.... Cuba for Civic Action Committee."

Cruz and Acevedo were reported to have rented the store room, where the arms were found, from a third unidentified man last November for $75 a month, saying it was to be used to manufacture crates.

Adams said the weapons in the arsenal were American-made. They included 27 large caliber anti-tank guns with 24 cases of ammunition, 23 Garand rifles with four cases of bullets, and 250 hand grenades.

The plan was to remove the guns from the country," Adams told newsmen. He said the men in custody are believed to have smuggled other arms out previously.

Cases Unloaded

The arsenal was stacked in a street level store room of a five-story business and residential building at 173 West 99th St.

Nathan Small, clerk for the building's owners, said that recently "trucks began to unload heavy cases outside of the premises."

Although Adams said no link between the arsenal and the recent Puerto Rican shooting in Congress, he nevertheless obtained cancellation of a Spanish-American rally scheduled Friday night a few blocks from the arms cache.

A speaker at the rally was to have been the Puerto Rican labor secretary.

Adams said he had every respect for the sponsors of the planned meeting. But he added: "In view of the Puerto Rican situation and in view of what we discovered Friday afternoon—the store of arms and ammunition—I did it in the public interest and for the protection of the people who intended to go to the meeting."

BRITISH WARTIME PILOT, FATHER, NOW A 'WOMAN' ... May Be 'Most Complete' Switch

LONDON (AP)—A British wartime fighter pilot, father of two children, has undergone medical and surgical treatment that has transformed him into a woman, Press Association reported Friday night.

In a long detailed dispatch the news agency said this "may well be the most complete change of sex in the world's medical history."

Press Association declined to state the source of the story but said documents prove its authenticity.

The patient was identified as Bob Cowell, 35, former rugby football player and racing motorist and son of Maj. Gen. Sir Ernest Cowell. Gen. Cowell was honorary surgeon to the late King George VI and President Eisenhower's director of medical services in the North African campaign of World War II.

Press Association gave this account:

Bob Cowell became conscious of changes in his physical condition and mental outlook in 1948—after years of hazardous adventure as a Spitfire pilot and driver of roaring racing cars and motor-cycles. An eminent physician told him that his body showed prominent feminine sex characteristics.

He abandoned motor racing, abandoned old friends and on the advice of doctors underwent hormone treatment designed to expedite the change.

"Brilliant plastic surgery was the next step. In three years skillful operations at a London hospital by one of Britain's most eminent surgeons completed the transformation. Gradually, the chrysalis emerged as a female."

His birth certificate issued from a South Croydon registrar's office was corrected on May 17, 1951 to list the sex as girl. Cowell took the names Roberta Elizabeth.

A physician who made the statutory declaration in connection with the birth certificate change said Friday night: "I had absolutely nothing to do with the operation. All I had to do was to verify that Roberta Cowell was a woman." This doctor asked that his name not be used.

Since the final operation Elizabeth Cowell "has striven to adjust herself to society." Her original timidity "has been replaced by complete assurance in her new sex."

Part of the time she has lived with her parents in Croydon and partly in the homes of her married brother and sister. At present she is "somewhere on the continent."

The two children of Cowell's marriage — both girls aged 10 and 12—are being cared for by a relative. "Neither of them has the slightest inkling of what has befallen their parent."

Cowell's wife has remarried. She was granted a divorce in 1952, on grounds of desertion. Her whereabouts are unknown.

Cowell had a good war record and rose to the rank of flight lieutenant in the RAF. He often engaged in dog-fights as a Spitfire pilot.

Enemy planes shot him down in a mission over Germany and he spent six months as a prisoner of war before being liberated.

VAL'S TOO BUSY FOR POLITICS

WASHINGTON (AP)—Val Peterson, federal civil defense administrator, says he's too busy to think much about Nebraska politics now.

The former Nebraska governor said: "I have given no thought to being a candidate for any office this year."

His civil defense job and special assignments for President Eisenhower are keeping him hopping, he said.

Childish Escapade Armed Holdup, 5 Burglaries Linked To Local Youths, 14

Juvenile Judge Harry Ankeny has continued the cases of two 14-year-old Lincoln youths, whose so-called "childish escapade" included "one armed robbery, five burglaries, and two stolen cars" —until he can talk further with their fathers.

Summarizing the case investigation, Dep. Co. Atty. Elmer Scheele told the court the youths stole a car in Lincoln on Feb. 12. The car was later located at Kalspeis, Mont.

Scheele said the youths have admitted five burglaries in Montana in which small amounts of cash, a flashlight, and a gun were obtained.

According to Montana authorities, the youths were also involved in an "armed robbery" and stole another car before being picked up near Bonner's Ferry, Ida., he said.

The youths' attorney agreed with Scheele's summary, but described the "armed robbery" thus way:

"The two boys were without food near Great Falls, Mont., stopped a car, and demanded $20 of the driver. They had the pistol they had obtained, but apparently did not pull the gun."

He said the boys' parents have contacted the aggrieved party in each instance and are making restitution for any damages.

The attorney said the "escapade of four or five days" was apparently "just a childish lark."

"This was not a lark or childish prank," replied Judge Ankeny, "it's more serious than that. It's just your age," he told the two boys, "that keeps you out of an adult court and from facing criminal charges for your acts."

Under questioning by Judge Ankeny, the youths gave no reasons for their actions. One said he now realizes the seriousness of his acts and the grief he has caused his parents.

Judge Ankeny indicated he would like to discuss possible disciplinary action with the boys' fathers before making a determination and continued the case for two weeks.

State May Use Radar, Air Patrol To Cut Road Slaughter

Bob Cowell became conscious of changes in his physical condition and mental outlook in 1948—after years of hazardous adventure as a Spitfire pilot and driver of roaring racing cars and motorcycles. An eminent physician told him that his body showed prominent feminine sex characteristics.

He abandoned motor racing, abandoned old friends and on the advice of doctors underwent hormone treatment designed to expedite the change.

"Brilliant plastic surgery was the next step. In three years skillful operations at a London hospital by one of Britain's most eminent surgeons completed the transformation. Gradually, the chrysalis emerged as a female."

His birth certificate issued from a South Croydon registrar's office was corrected on May 17, 1951 to list the sex as girl. Cowell took the names Roberta Elizabeth.

A physician who made the statutory declaration in connection with the birth certificate change said Friday night: "I had absolutely nothing to do with the operations. All I had to do was to verify that Roberta Cowell was a woman." This doctor asked that his name not be used.

Since the final operation Elizabeth Cowell has driven to reclusiveness to society. Her original timidity "has been reined in."

Storage Problem: Key Grain Meet Set At Omaha

By JOHN SWANSON
Star Staff Writer

The eyes of the nation's huge grain belt, threatened with the most serious storage situation in history, will be focused on Omaha March 18.

Top agricultural officials and other interested agencies will gather then to set an effective course to deal with the critical grain storage problem.

C. W. Means of the Omaha Chamber of Commerce Agriculture Committee confirmed when contacted by The Lincoln Star Friday night that space had been arranged in the Paxton Hotel ballroom for 700 in an all-day meeting.

There were unconfirmed reports that Secretary of Agriculture Benson would be on hand for the conference.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture in Washington called the grain storage conference to discuss the grain storage problem with its field officials and representatives from state agricultural colleges, farm organizations and the grain and feed industry. Agriculture officials said they believed the meeting would be of national or at least regional scope.

The meeting will take place in Nebraska only weeks before the government expects to encounter in the state the worst wheat storage shortage in its history. This situation will develop when the government takes delivery on some 15,000,000 bushels of loan wheat from Nebraska farms. This delivery will make storage particularly severe in the Panhandle and will come only shortly before another new crop is harvested.

Such a situation in Nebraska and other states in the grain belt will lend a note of urgency to the Omaha conference.

The Department of Agriculture Friday called upon farmers to store on farms another year about half a billion bushels of 1953-crop grains to help meet the problem. As an incentive, the Associated Press reported, the department offered farmers storage payments to hold wheat, corn, oats, barley, grain, sorghums, rye and flaxseed under support programs.

Puerto Ricans Enter Pleas Of Innocence

WASHINGTON (AP)—Formal pleas of "innocent" were entered in U. S. District Court Friday for four Puerto Rican Nationalists accused of shooting down five congressmen in the House of Representatives Monday.

"I would like it to be charged that what I committed was the defense of my country," said Lolita Lebron, 34, in broken English. She describes herself as the ring-leader in the attack.

"We came here to defend the independence of our country," chimed in Rafael Cancel Miranda, 25, another defendant.

The brief proceedings, calmly judicial, contrasted sharply with the wild scene in the House four days ago, when the floor was sprayed with pistol bullets from all strategic spots in the courtroom to maintain order and guard against any new outbreak by Puerto Rican terrorists.

Mrs. Lebron was the first of the four asked to enter a plea. She appeared confused by the proceedings, but after a Spanish interpreter was called upon to help her she said:

"Not Guilty Plea

"I would like to talk about it in one respect. I would like it to be charged that what I committed was the defense of my country."

"But you do enter a plea of not guilty?" Judge James W. Morris asked.

"Yes, on those grounds," Mrs. Lebron replied.

Judge Morris entered pleas of innocent for all four and set April 5 as the tentative date for their trial.

Mrs. Lebron, Miranda, Andres Figueroa Cordero, 29, and Irving Fugere Rodriguez, 28, are each charged with five counts of assault with intent to kill and five counts of assault with a dangerous weapon.

The court confirmed their bonds at $100,000.

In asking for the steep bonds, U. S. Attorney Leo A. Rover stated that the Puerto Ricans face a possible maximum penalty of 75 years imprisonment. He called their attack "utterly ruthless."

Seized With Arms Cache

Rifles, Grenades, Anti-Tank Guns In Arsenal

NEW YORK (AP)—A huge supply of American-made weapons was seized by New York police Friday in an upper West Side Manhattan store room.

Under arrest were two men, identified by police Commissioner Francis W. H. Adams as members of a Cuban organization opposed to the regime of Gen. Fulgencio Batista, president of Cuba.

The men were identified as Mario Cruz, 34, and Roberto Oscar Acevedo, 36, who speak only a smattering of English between them.

Adams announced he had ordered a roundup of known members of anti-Batista organizations after discovery of the crates which included mortar shells, anti-tank guns, Garand rifles, grenades and a big supply of shells for the firearms.

Adams described Cruz and Acevedo as "very intelligent" and said they also were "very unco-operative."

Thus far, the police commissioner said, seven known members of anti-Batista organizations have been taken into custody for questioning. They included six men and a woman.

Flying Squad

They were seized, Adams said, in a "flying squad" raid on the apartment of one of them. In the apartment, police said, were two placards which read: "Wake up, America! Batista is a Communist dictator that has Cuba converted into a concentration camp. The Cuba for Action Committee."

"Batista's Communist dictatorship violates the U. S. Articles No. 5 on the right of man ... Cuba for Civic Action Committee."

Cruz and Acevedo were reported to have rented the store room, where the arms were found, from a third unidentified man last November for $75 a month, saying it was to be used to manufacture crates.

Adams said the weapons in the arsenal were American-made. They included 27 large caliber anti-tank guns with 24 cases of ammunition, 25 Garand rifles with four cases of bullets, and 250 hand grenades.

The plan was to remove the guns from the country," Adams told newsmen. He said the men in custody are believed to have smuggled other arms out previously.

Cases Unloaded

The arsenal was stacked in a street level store room of a five-story business and a residential building at 173 West 99th St.

Nathan Small, clerk for the building's owners, said that recently "trucks began to unload heavy cases outside of the premises."

Although Adams said no link between the arsenal and the recent Puerto Rican shooting in Congress, he nevertheless obtained cancellation of a Spanish-American rally scheduled Friday night a few blocks from the arms cache.

A speaker at the rally was to have been the Puerto Rican labor secretary.

Adams said he had every respect for the sponsors of the planned meeting. But he added: "In view of the Puerto Rican situation and in view of what we discovered Friday afternoon—the store of arms and ammunition—I did it in the public interest and for the protection of the people who intended to go to the meeting."

Gunshot Victim Is 'Very Critical'

OMAHA (AP)—Dean Bucknell, 18-year-old Fremont High School student, was listed as in "very critical" condition at Methodist Hospital here Friday after being wounded Wednesday afternoon in a gun accident at his home in Fremont.

Bucknell was planning to go target shooting with a friend and was preparing to clean the .22 caliber pistol when it discharged, the bullet striking him in the head.

The wounded youth was taken first to a Fremont hospital and then to an Omaha hospital.

Childish Escapade' Armed Holdup, 5 Burglaries Linked To Local Youths, 14

Juvenile Judge Harry Ankeny has continued the cases of two 14-year-old Lincoln youths, whose so-called "childish escapade" included "one armed robbery, five burglaries, and two stolen cars"—until he can talk further with their fathers.

Summarizing the case investigation, Dep. Co. Atty. Elmer Scheele told the court the youth stole a car in Lincoln on Feb. 12. The car was later located at Kalispell, Mont.

Scheele said the youths have admitted five burglaries in Montana in which small amounts of cash, a flashlight, and a gun were obtained.

According to Montana authorities, the youths were also involved in an "armed robbery" and stole another car before being picked up near Bonner's Ferry, Ida., he said.

The youths' attorney agreed with Scheele's summary, but described the "armed robbery" this way:

"The two boys were without food near Great Falls, Mont., stopped a car, and demanded $20 of the driver. They had the pistol they had obtained, but apparently did not pull the gun."

He said the boys' parents have contacted the aggrieved party in each instance and are making restitution for any damages.

The attorney said the "escapade of four or five days" was apparently "just a childish lark."

"This was not a lark or childish prank," replied Judge Ankeny, "it's more serious than that. It's just your age," he told the two boys "that keeps you out of an adult court and from facing criminal charges for your acts."

Under questioning by Judge Ankeny, the youths gave no reasons for their actions. One said he now realizes the seriousness of his acts and the grief he has caused his parents.

Judge Ankeny indicated he would like to discuss possible disciplinary action with the boys' fathers before making a determination and continued the case for two weeks.

—Pentagon-McCarthy War— Stevens' Aide Quits; Feud With Joe Cited Army Secretary Didn't Get 'Full Support' In Fight, Says Kane

WASHINGTON (AP)—A top aide to Army Secretary Stevens quit his job Friday in protest against what he called the failure of Stevens' superiors to give him badly needed support in his fight with Sen. McCarthy.

John F. Kane, special assistant to the secretary, announced his resignation in a letter which charged that Stevens had not received "full fighting support in the gallant battle you are trying to put up for the Army."

Kane wrote also that he felt that Stevens and the Army need such help "very badly" and added his opinion that the Army should "never be subjected, even indirectly, to politics of any kind."

Beck Heads Tire Dealers Safety Group

OMAHA (AP)—Nebraska tire dealers Friday named Chris Beck of Lincoln as their chairman in an organizational move to promote safety on Nebraska highways.

Beck was named chairman of the Nebraska Tire Dealers' Highway and Safety Assn.

The group was the first to announce an organization in connection with the recommendations made at a recent White House Conference on Highway Safety.

Other officers include: Les Loesch, Kearney; Wayne Swank, Scottsbluff; and Thom Witt, Pender, vice presidents, and C. Jack Frost, Omaha secretary-treasurer.

Beck named district managers of major tire companies to spread interest among their dealers over the state. The managers, all of Omaha, are: W. E. McDaniel, D. E. Buchanan, C. J. Flick, H. L. McKellar and C. B. Hudson.

Beck said his group would offer its co-operation to Gov. Robert Crosby in a state-wide safety organization and also would spearhead organization in each community where it has members.

Later, however, after a conference with McCarthy and other senators he rescinded these orders. Still later he said he would never accede to any "browbeating" of Army witnesses. On Wednesday President Eisenhower entered the controversy with a call for "fair play" by congressional investigators.

McCarthy had criticized Gen. Zwicker because of an honorable discharge given Maj. Irving Peress, a New York dentist whom McCarthy calls "a fifth Amendment Communist." Zwicker said he merely acted under orders in giving the discharge.

Secretary of Defense Wilson said Thursday charges of Army coddling of Communists were "damn tommyrot." Wilson said that Stevens, as head of the Army, was "technically responsible" for the handling of such cases as Peress's. He said that looking at the matter "from hindsight" Stevens admittedly could have done better. Wilson added that he does not expect Stevens to resign.

Kane, in resigning Friday, expressed regret that the Stevens accomplishments in the name of "fair treatment have been obscured by a lack of energetic and skillful support from the very people who should be the first to help you."

Help To Continue

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower told Congress Friday he has ordered continuance of aid to five European nations even though they have shipped more than six million dollars worth of strategic materials to Soviet Russia and her satellites.

The nations involved are Denmark, France, Italy, Norway and the United Kingdom. The President said to stop military and economic aid to these countries because they permitted trade with eastern Europe in recent months would "clearly be detrimental to the security of the United States."

Giveaway Powers

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senators sparring over the administration's farm program heard with seeming amazement Friday that it would empower President Eisenhower to give away 2½ billion dollars worth of surplus agricultural products.

"The whole thing?" Sen. Elender (D-La.) inquired in a tone of astonishment.

"Yes, sir, that's right," solicitor Karl Loos of the Agriculture Department replied.

But Undersecretary of Agriculture True D. Morse assured the Senate Agriculture Committee that while the power is being requested, "there is no contemplation that these commodities would all be given away by any means." These are products the administration proposes to "set aside" as one means of attacking the tough problem of surpluses.

The man complained after the woman asked him to produce another $1,000, authorities said. Police Chief Norman Bryant, Captain Gene Burton and sheriff's officers raided the establishment and the woman admitted taking the money from the man but said she was "just holding it for him." Police returned the money to the Barneston man.

Police told the group, reportedly consisting of six more members of the family, that if they would get out of town within 24 hours, they might escape prosecution. Friday the family was seen busily packing their property into a trailer preparatory to leaving.

Clues Missing, Relatives Go Back Home

Lincoln Star Special

HUMBOLDT, Neb.—Relatives of Leo Goodhart, missing Humboldt rancher, have returned to Humboldt from Golden, Colo., where they posted $1,000 reward for information leading to the finding of Goodhart—dead or alive.

There are no new clues to the whereabouts of the missing man, according to his brother, Dale, who with Mrs. Leo Goodhart and William Lambert of Shubert, friend of the family, spent several days in Colorado to aid law officers in the search.

In the meantime, Jefferson County Sheriff Carl Enlow at Golden Friday began mailing bulletins to police departments throughout the country describing Goodhart.

The reward was offered by Goodhart's wife and two brothers, Dale of Humboldt and Merle of San Diego, Calif., who was also in Colorado for a few days but has returned to the west coast. The Goodharts posted the reward with Enlow personally.

The missing Goodhart left his Denver hotel Feb. 19 and did not return. A car he rented was found stalled in a snowbank in mountain area northwest of Denver two days later. A search of the area produced no trace of the Nebraskan.

Warren Shurtleff of Arvada, Colo., a carpenter who worked for Goodhart in Nebraska 15 years ago, told Enlow he thought he saw Goodhart Feb. 23 driving a car on the western outskirts of Denver.

Driver Fined $50 In Forke Mishap

John J. Shortall, 26, jewelry salesman from Topeka, Kan., was fined $50 and costs in Municipal Court Friday after being found guilty of negligent driving.

Attorneys representing Shortall didn't call him to the stand but stipulated the evidence following testimony by two police officers for the prosecution. The evidence presented against Shortall included the fact that his car had left 32 feet of skid-marks before colliding with a car driven by Dean Forke, 28, of 1825 Oteo.

Forke suffered amputations of both legs, the right above the knee and the left below the knee, as a result of the accident. The crash occurred at the 27th and Van Dorn intersection.

John Binning, prosecuting attorney for the city, put into evidence the fact that first aid was given Forke after the accident which, Binning said, was a material factor to be considered. The first aid was administered, he said, by the passengers, including the driver, in the car that collided with Forke's.

Forke's attorney did not file notice of appeal. The testimony given in court was transcribed by a court reporter.

—Pentagon-McCarthy War— Stevens' Aide Quits; Feud With Joe Cited

Army Secretary Didn't Get 'Full Support' In Fight, Says Kane

WASHINGTON (AP)—A top aide to Army Secretary Stevens quit his job Friday in protest against what he called the failure of Stevens' superiors to give him badly needed support in his fight with Sen. McCarthy.

John F. Kane, special assistant to the secretary, announced his resignation in a letter which charged that Stevens had not received "full fighting support in the gallant battle you are trying to put up for the Army."

Kane wrote also that he felt that Stevens and the Army need such help "very badly" and added his opinion that the Army should "never be subjected, even indirectly, to politics of any kind."

Kane did not say just what superiors he had in mind.

Stevens' immediate superiors would be Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson and John Kane, Deputy Secretary Roger M. Kyes. Over them is President Eisenhower.

Kane expressed the hope that Stevens would stay in his post to "fight for the firm establishment" of his principles.

Stevens recently took issue with what he termed Sen. McCarthy's "abuse" of Brig. Ralph W. Zwicker. Stevens told Zwicker and another Army officer not to appear at another session of McCarthy's subcommittee.

"Browbeating"

Later, however, after a conference with McCarthy and other senators he rescinded these orders. Still later he said he would never accede to any "browbeating" of Army witnesses. On Wednesday President Eisenhower entered the controversy with a call for "fair play" by congressional investigators.

McCarthy had criticized Gen. Zwicker because of an honorable discharge given Maj. Irving Peress, a New York dentist whom McCarthy calls "a fifth Amendment Communist." Zwicker said he merely acted under orders in giving the discharge.

Secretary of Defense Wilson said Thursday charges of Army coddling of Communists were "damnable tommyrot." Wilson said that Stevens, as head of the Army, was "technically responsible" for the handling of such cases as Peress's. He said that looking at the matter "from hindsight" Stevens admittedly could have done better. Wilson added that he does not expect Stevens to resign.

Kane, in resigning Friday, expressed regret that the Stevens accomplishments in the name of "fair treatment" have been obscured by a lack of energetic and skillful support from the very people who should be the first to help him.

Beck Heads Tire Dealers Safety Group

OMAHA (AP)—Nebraska tire dealers Friday named Chris Beck of Lincoln as their chairman in an organizational move to promote safety on Nebraska highways.

Beck was named chairman of the Nebraska Tire Dealers' Highway and Safety Assn. The group was the first to announce an organization in connection with the recommendations made at a recent White House Conference on Highway Safety.

Other officers include: Les Loesch, Kearney; Wayne Swank, Scottsbluff; and Thom Witt, Pender, vice presidents, and C. Jack Frost, Omaha secretary-treasurer.

Beck named district managers of major tire companies to spread interest among their dealers over the state. The managers, all of Omaha, are: W. E. McDaniel, D. E. Buchanan, C. J. Flick, H. L. McKellar and C. B. Hudson.

Beck said his group would offer its co-operation to Gov. Robert Crosby in a state-wide safety organization and also would spearhead organization in each community where it has members.

Alliance Mechanic Held For Thefts

ALLIANCE, Neb. (AP)—Officers said Friday a series of burglaries in Box Butte and Morrill counties was cleared up with the arrest of Junior Stephen Foster, 30, Alliance garage mechanic.

He was arrested at his home here Friday by Alliance Police Chief D. A. Thomas, Morrill County Sheriff Earl Yeoman and Lt. Leo Knudson, criminal investigator of the Nebraska Safety Patrol.

A charge of breaking and entering was filed against Foster in Morrill County Court at Bridgeport, but he was kept in custody at Alliance.

The officers said Foster admitted at least six burglaries at Alliance, one at Berea, one at Bridgeport and Angola.

454 Of State's Handicapped Children Get Special Aid In Lincoln Schools

Of 2,307 handicapped children in the state who are receiving special education, 454 are getting this attention in Lincoln schools.

The others are in 56 Nebraska communities which have programs for the hard of hearing, homebound, mentally or orthopedically handicapped or those who need speech therapy.

State figures, announced by F. B. Decker, state superintendent of public instruction, are for the first semester of the 1953-54 school year.

Five full-time instructors furnish speech therapy for 280 children in Lincoln, Julius A. Humann, Lincoln director of special education, said.

One of the speech therapists is at Park School and the other four divide their time among 24 other schools.

News Around The Globe

Help To Continue

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower told Congress Friday he has ordered continuance of aid to five European nations even though they have shipped more than six million dollars worth of strategic materials to Soviet Russia and her satellites.

The nations involved are Denmark, France, Italy, Norway and the United Kingdom. The President said to stop military and economic aid to these countries because they permitted trade with eastern Europe in recent months would "clearly be detrimental to the security of the United States."

Port Strike Flares

NEW YORK (AP)—The smoldering union rivalry for control of New York's big waterfront flared into a portwide wildcat strike Friday in defiance of a Federal Court no-strike order.

Dockers of the old International Longshoremen's Assn. (Ind) ignored their own leaders as well as the government to tie up about half of the port's 139 piers. "Pretty effective throughout the port," was the way shipping circles summed up the strike.

Priest Arrested

MACON, Ga. (AP)—A White Catholic priest Friday was free under $500 bond on a charge of assault to rape a 17-year-old Negro girl, local officers said.

The Rev. Charles R. Canavan of St. Peter Claver Catholic Church for Negroes here was arrested on a city warrant sworn out by parents of the girl, Assistant Police Chief James F. Flynt said.

Giveaway Powers

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senators sparring over the administration's farm program heard with seeming amazement Friday that it would empower President Eisenhower to give away 2½ billion dollars worth of surplus agricultural products.

"The whole thing?" Sen. Elender (D-La) inquired in a tone of astonishment. "Yes, sir, that's right," solicitor Karl Loos of the Agriculture Department replied.

But Undersecretary of Agriculture True D. Morse assured the Senate Agriculture Committee that while the power is being requested, "there is no contemplation that these commodities would all be given away by any means." These are products the administration proposes to "set aside" as one means of attacking the tough problem of surpluses.

More Aid Planned

WASHINGTON (INS)—U. S. Foreign Aid Chief Harold Stassen said Friday the United States plans to extend more than one billion dollars in economic and military aid to embattled Indo-China in 1954.

Stassen told a news conference that between 250 and 350 million dollars in military equipment would be supplied to the French and native forces fighting the Communists in the eight-year-old war, in addition to 785 million dollars in aid previously announced. He said it was hoped all the aid could be delivered to Indo-China by the end of this calendar year.

Palm Readers Are Ordered Out Of Town

By BILL HINEL
Beatrice Bureau

BEATRICE, Neb.—Police and sheriff's officers have ordered out of town the proprietors of a palm reading and fortune telling business which has flourished in Beatrice a little less than a year. The action came after a Barnes businesswoman complained to police that he had turned over $2,500 to a woman who promised to mysteriously turn it into $5,000.

The man complained after the woman asked him to produce another $1,000, authorities said. Police Chief Norman Bryant, Captain Gene Burton and sheriff's officers raided the establishment and the woman admitted taking the money from the man but said she was "just holding it for him." Police returned the money to the Barnesman.

Police told the group, reportedly consisting of six more members of the family, that if they would get out of town within 24 hours, they might escape prosecution. Friday the family was seen busily packing their property into a trailer preparatory to leaving.

The Nebraska Wing Civil Air Patrol was presented an achievement award Friday night for practice rescue and search missions at Hastings last summer.

The award was presented in connection with the Air Age Education Clinic that was held Friday in Lincoln. Major Marshall Fredrickson, operations officer for the 44th air rescue squadron at Lowrey Field, Colo. made the presentation to the state wing.

C.A.P. members from South Dakota, Kansas, Nebraska, and Missouri were present at the award dinner.

Omahan On Way To Give 4-H Report To President

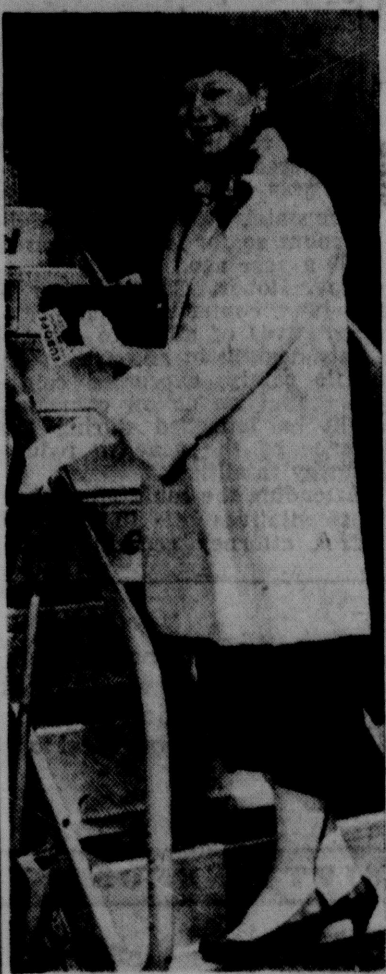

Janet Kuska, of Omaha, departed from Lincoln Friday on an all-expense paid trip to Washington, D.C., where she and five other top 4-H'ers will present a "4-H Report to the Nation" to the President. The report highlights the achievements of all 4-H members during the past year.

She is the 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Val Kuska. She was chosen as one of the nation's two outstanding leadership winners in the contest last fall. National winners in achievement and citizenship, two in each, make up the remainder of the Washington-bound delegation. The pictorial and narrative report is compiled by the Federal Extension Service who arranged the details of the trip in co-operation with the National Committee on Boys and Girls Club Work, Chicago, Ill.

Miss Kuska, with nine years of club work to her credit, showed natural talent and love for leadership at an early age, holding and conducting 4-H meetings in her home for many years.

She has successfully completed 68 various projects in poultry, forestry, birds, garden, livestock, sewing, canning, health, electricity, food and yard beautification, with excellent records in egg production, swine, sheep and fine vegetable and fruit produce.

Among her skills, Janet's records show that she mastered the complicated art of fancy rope tying.

Tatal Saved May Reach $500,000

The State Highway Department Friday completed tabulations of bids on 11 of 13 projects estimated to cost $3,500,000 which were opened Friday.

With competition of up to 24 firms on every project, it was estimated that the low bids will total less than $3,000,000. Bids were as much as 20 per cent below estimates based on similar work contracted earlier.

The apparent low bidders were:

On the Pawnee City-DuBois-Kansas state line project of 11.9 miles, J. D. Armstrong, Ames, Ia., bid $59,595 for grading; Keim Construction Co., Tecumseh, $52,846 on culverts, and Capitol Bridge Co., Lincoln, $92,369 on bridges.

Northern Nebraska was heaviest represented in the projects at the March offering. Francis R. Orshek, Fremont, bid $135,048 for grading and bituminous mat surface on 6.1 miles south of Atkinson in Holt County. Booth & Olson, Sioux City, Ia., bid $30,720 for the culverts and Norfolk Bridge & Construction Co., Norfolk, $79,431 for bridges.

Pierce, Cedar Work
On nine miles in Pierce and Cedar Counties on U. S. 81, Theisen Bros., Osmond, bid $76,714 on grading; Norfolk Bridge Co., $58,639 on culverts and $29,000 on bridges by Central States Bridge Co., Lincoln.

Eight miles on the same highway in Cedar County brought a bid of $79,717 from Theisen Bros.; for grading, $68,956 from Norfolk Bridge for culverts and $65,579 from Central States for bridges.

Grading and bituminous sand surfacing on 4.2 miles between Atkinson and O'Neill was bid at $115,667 by Missouri Valley Construction Co., Omaha, who also bid $13,701 on culverts.

Missouri Valley Construction Co. on paving of 11 miles of U.S. 30A west of Osceola bid $686,989.

U.S. 30
The same company bid $242,968 on re-surfacing ten miles of U.S. 30 between Lexington and Cozad.

V. A. Biba Engineering Co. of Geneva bid $159,452 on 9.6 miles of bituminous surfacing on U.S. 183 between Elm Creek and Holdrege and $10,542 on culverts.

Missouri Valley Construction Co. bid $478,418 on paving six miles of U.S. 81 between Chester and Hebron in Thayer County.

Francis R. Orshek, Inc., Fremont, bid $245,702 on 12.9 miles of bituminous surfacing on U.S. 281 south of O'Neill and No. 95 east and west of Chambers, all in Holt County. Capitol Bridge Co. of Lincoln bid $47,636 on bridges for this project.

Johnson Brothers Sand and Gravel Co. of Beatrice bid $24,975 on gravel for 13 miles of secondary road northeast of Beatrice.

Mao Tze-Tung Is Missing From Stalin Memorial

TOKYO (Saturday) (AP)—The name of Mao Tze-tung, Red China's ruler, was missing from the list of high ranking Communists who attended a memorial in Peiping Friday on the first anniversary of Joseph Stalin's death.

There have been unconfirmed reports that Mao is ill. Fritz Secker, a German journalist who recently arrived in Hong Kong from Peiping, said he heard that Mao is suffering from stomach ulcers and hemorrhages.

All members of the Politburo's Central Committee except the chairman, Mao, met for more than an hour in Peiping and lauded "the great Stalin."

Peiping Radio pulled out all the stops in acclaiming Russia's "great revolutionary teacher." It devoted most of its English language broadcast to the occasion.

Liu Shao-chi, mentioned as the man most likely to succeed Mao, gave the chief eulogy.

Top Personnel And Issues On REA Program

Headline issues plus the presence of such headliners as Fred Aandahl, assistant secretary of the Interior, and Ancher Nelson, national REA administrator, promise to draw a record-breaking 500 farmer directors of Nebraska's 51 REA districts to Lincoln Sunday for the 1954 three-day annual meeting of the Nebraska Rural Electric Association.

Aandahl and Nelson will come to Nebraska—the most completely integrated public power state in the nation—for a major selling of the administration's new public power policy to a dubious audience.

Both will arrive by air Sunday night from Washington. Nelson will be the principal speaker on the Monday morning program while Aandahl will appear Monday afternoon.

The sessions will open Sunday at the Cornhusker hotel with registrations, regional meetings, and women's activities.

Col. Thomas Hayes, Omaha, of the Corps of Engineers will discuss the Missouri River program Monday. Nelson will speak on REA Present and Future. Aandahl will concentrate his address on Missouri Basin policies under the direction of the new Republican administration.

Governor Robert Crosby will appear before the Tuesday afternoon session discussing Nebraska and Public Power sharing the day with Chris Schultz, director of the western area of Nebraska's REA who will speak on the REA program.

Interest will focus on the late Tuesday session which will bring the annual election of officers and resolutions expressing Nebraska's decision on the administration's public power policy, its new marketing criteria and other vital controversial matters.

The convention banquet will be held Monday evening at the Cornhusker hotel.

Missionary Tells Of Japan At World Prayer Day Services

There is a recognition of the right of freedom of religion, especially for the young people in Japan, but many of their elders still cling to tradition, Helen Harder said at World Day of Prayer services Friday.

Miss Harder, a missionary in Japan since 1927, was guest speaker at the afternoon service at First Presbyterian Church sponsored by the Lincoln Council of Church Women.

"There was very close co-operation on the part of the Japanese people with the occupation forces," she said. "Many people considered and studied Christianity and democracy as the secret of American success. Since independence was granted there has been a resurgence of old methods and traditions."

'Re-Evaluation' Cited
Miss Harder said she felt there will be a re-evaluation of both the new and the old and the Japanese will accept the best of both.

Esther Ehnborn, a medical missionary to the Belgian Congo since 1926, spoke at the morning service at First Presbyterian and the evening service at Westminster Presbyterian.

Miss Ehnborn, who was responsible for establishing a leper colony at Banza Mateke which cares for more than 300 patients, said "Ours is the privilege of helping these people spiritually and physically that they might have life and have it more abundantly."

She said they were very thankful for the new sulfa drugs which have changed the whole attitude in the leper colony, from one of despair to one of hope.

Miss Ehnborn told the women that she was privileged to attend the sixth annual congress on leprosy in Madrid last fall.

Tributes 'Wonderful'
"It was wonderful to hear the tributes paid to Christian missions and the part they are playing in the leper work of the world," she said.

World Day of Prayer services were also held Friday night at the Central Christian and Missionary Alliance Church. The Rev. Theodore Epp, director of the Back to the Bible broadcast, was principal speaker at the service sponsored by the Greater Lincoln Conservative Ministers Association.

"Men are constantly devising new methods, new plans, new organizations to advance the church," he said. "The trend of today is to lose sight of the man, God's man. God is looking for better men, men of prayer, whereas the church is looking for better methods."

The church today needs men filled with the Holy Ghost who are mighty in prayer, he said, and not more machinery, new organizations or more novel methods.

The Holy Spirit does not anoint plans but men of prayer, the Rev. Mr. Epp said.

Mortgaged Corn Sale Sentence Is Probation

Adolph Meyer, about 40, Falls City, has been placed on 90 days probation upon conviction in Federal Court of a charge of converting to his own use a certain product mortgaged to the Commodity Credit Corp.

Meyer was indicted by the Grand Jury at Omaha Jan. 22, 1954 for selling 3,808 bushels of mortgaged corn. In passing sentence, District Judge John W. Delehant took into consideration certain mitigating, extenuating circumstances, including the fact that Meyer had paid back to the Corporation the entire cost of the corn.

Father Of Seven Kills Wife And Self

CLINTON, Ia. (AP)—A father of seven children killed his wife, then fatally shot himself Friday several hours before the estranged couple was to appear in divorce court.

Police Chief Jens C. Kair said Morris Petersen, 46, chased Mrs. Alma Petersen, 45, from her apartment into a neighbor's apartment where he shot her with a .410-gauge shotgun.

The couple had been married 24 years. She had filed suit for divorce, charging non-support and habitual cruelty.

Low Road Bids 20% Below Estimate

Total Saved May Reach $500,000

The State Highway Department Friday completed tabulations of bids on 11 of 13 projects estimated to cost $3,500,000 which were opened Friday. With competition of up to 24 firms on every project, it was estimated that the low bids will total less than $3,000,000. Bids were as much as 20 per cent below estimates based on similar work contracted earlier.

The apparent low bidders were:

On the Pawnee City-DuBois-Kansas state line project of 11.9 miles, J. D. Armstrong, Ames, Ia., bid $59,595 for grading; Keim Construction Co., Tecumseh, $52,646 on culverts, and Capitol Bridge Co., Lincoln, $92,369 on bridges.

Northern Nebraska was heaviest represented in the projects at the March offering. Francis R. Orshek, Fremont, bid $133,048 for grading and bituminous mat surface on 6.1 miles south of Atkinson in Holt County. Booth & Olson, Sioux City, Ia., bid $30,720 for the culverts and Norfolk Bridge & Construction Co., Norfolk, $79,431 for bridges.

Pierce, Cedar Work

On nine miles in Pierce and Cedar Counties on U. S. 81, Theisen Bros., Osmond, bid $76,714 on grading; Norfolk Bridge Co., $58,639 on culverts and $22,000 on bridges by Central States Bridge Co., Lincoln.

Eight miles on the same highway in Cedar County brought a bid of $79,717 from Theisen Bros. for grading, $69,966 from Norfolk Bridge for culverts and $65,579 from Central States for bridges.

Grading and bituminous sand surfacing on 4.2 miles between Atkinson and O'Neill was bid at $115,667 by Missouri Valley Construction Co., Omaha, who also bid $13,701 on culverts.

Missouri Valley Construction Co. on paving of 11 miles of U. S. 30A west of Osceola bid $686,889.

U.S. 30

The same company bid $242,968 on re-surfacing ten miles of U. S. 30 between Lexington and Cozad.

W. A. Biba Engineering Co. of Geneva bid $159,452 on 9.6 miles of bituminous surfacing on U. S. 183 between Elm Creek and Holdrege and $10,542 on culverts. Missouri Valley Construction Co. bid $478,418 on paving six miles of U. S. 81 between Chester and Hebron in Thayer County.

Francis R. Orshek, Inc., Fremont, bid $245,702 on 12.9 miles of bituminous surfacing on U. S. 281 south of O'Neill and No. 95 east and west of Chambers, all in Holt County. Capitol Bridge Co. of Lincoln bid $47,636 on bridges for this project.

Johnson Brothers Sand and Gravel Co. of Beatrice bid $24,975 on gravel for 13 miles of secondary road northeast of Beatrice.

Top Personnel And Issues On REA Program

Headline issues plus the presence of such headliners as Fred Aandahl, assistant secretary of the Interior, and Ancher Nelson, national REA administrator, promise to draw a record-breaking 500 farmer directors of Nebraska's 51 REA districts to Lincoln Sunday for the 1954 three-day annual meeting of the Nebraska Rural Electric Association.

Miss Ehnborn, who was responsible for establishing a leper colony at Banza Mateke which cares for about 300 patients, said "Ours is the privilege of helping these people spiritually and physically that they might have life and have it more abundantly."

She said they were very thankful for the new sulfa drugs which have changed the whole attitude in the leper colony, from one of despair to one of hope.

Miss Ehnborn told the women that she was privileged to attend the sixth annual congress on leprosy in Madrid last fall.

Tributes 'Wonderful'

"It was wonderful to hear the tributes paid to Christian missions and the part they are playing in the leper work of the world," she said.

World Day of Prayer services were also held Friday night at the Central Christian and Missionary Alliance Church. The Rev. Theodore Epp, director of the Back to the Bible broadcast, was principal speaker at the service sponsored by the Greater Lincoln Conservative Ministers Association.

"Men are constantly devising new methods, new plans, new organizations to advance the church," he said. "The trend of today is to lose sight of the man, God's man. God is looking for better men, men of prayer, whereas the church is looking for better methods."

The church today needs men filled with the Holy Ghost who are mighty in prayer, he said, and not more machinery, new organizations or more novel methods.

The Holy Spirit does not appoint plans but men of prayer, the Rev. Mr. Epp said.

Mao Tze-Tung Is Missing From Stalin Memorial

TOKYO (Saturday) (AP)—The name of Mao Tze-tung, Red China's ruler, was missing from the list of high ranking Communists who attended a memorial in Peiping Friday on the first anniversary of Joseph Stalin's death.

There have been unconfirmed reports that Mao "is ill," Fritz Secker, a German journalist who recently arrived in Hong Kong from Peiping, said he heard that Mao is suffering from stomach ulcers and hemorrhages.

All members of the Politburo's Central Committee except the chairman, Mao, met for more than an hour in Peiping and lauded "the great Stalin."

Peiping Radio pulled out all the stops in acclaiming Russia's "great revolutionary teacher." It devoted most of its English language broadcast to the occasion.

Liu Shao-chi, mentioned as the man most likely to succeed Mao, gave the chief eulogy.

Title Confirmed

NEW YORK (AP)—It may now at last be said that Trinity Church, which has occupied a site in lower Manhattan's financial district for about 300 years, has a right to be there. A legal suit, brought on behalf of Dorothy McClatchie and claiming ownership of the property through a 1642 grant to her ancestors, was recently thrown out of court—partly because of "the passage of time."

Campos Free Lest He Be Seen As A Martyr

WASHINGTON—When naive, fair-minded Secretary of the Army Stevens huddled with Republican members of Sen. McCarthy's investigating committee, Sen. Mundt of South Dakota typed out their mutual agreement with three fingers on a typewriter.

In it he inserted a paragraph that the trouble inside the Army—over Major Peress, General Zwicker, etc.—was all the fault of the previous administration, referring of course to Truman days.

"No," remonstrated Secretary Stevens, "that was not the case, and it would not be fair to say so."

INSANE PUERTO RICAN
Puerto Rico's statesmanlike Gov. Luis Munoz-Marin has been asked why he released nationalist leader Albizu Campos from jail last September despite the fact that Campos lived for two years in the home of Oscar Collazo, one of the two nationalists who tried to kill President Truman in 1950 and who also plotted against Munoz-Marin.

Discussing this with me, Gov. Munoz explained:

"Campos had become a martyr to many people and the longer he remained in jail, the more martyrdom he assumed. Actually he was a mental case. And now that he is released from jail, people can see how crazy he is and no longer take him seriously."

"While in jail, Campos wore cold towels around his head to protect him—so he claimed—from atomic rays from the United States," Gov. Munoz explained. "He was convinced that the United States government was directing atomic rays into his jail cell to kill him."

"Now that he is out of jail, he still wears the towels around his head, and of course people realize that if the United States had the power to direct such a ray they would have used it first perhaps on such a person as Joe Stalin. So he has become quite ludicrous to the people who once looked up to him as a great martyr."

NO CURE ON SENATE PROBES
Sen. Ferguson of Michigan, chairman of the powerful Republican policy committee of the Senate, seemed to mean business when he announced an overhauling of Senate investigative procedure. He even told newsmen that the overhaul was aimed at Sen. McCarthy's methods. It was also made known that the President himself wanted such an overhaul.

However, the charming senator from Michigan is not a man who shows great determination when put on the hot spot as far as other senators are concerned. Once before, when he was chairman of the committee McCarthy now presides over, Ferguson let it be known he would probe the speculation of Sen. Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma, a Democrat who used his high place on the Senate Agriculture Committee to speculate in cotton and other farm products.

Though Ferguson actually stated the probe, he suddenly called it off.

His right-about-face took place after receiving a letter from Sen. Thomas—subsequently published in this column—in which Thomas told him he knew of certain favors received by the Ferguson family from the Chrysler company in Detroit.

After receipt of the Thomas letter, the senator from Michigan

POSTCARD

From Hawaii

At about 8 o'clock of the Honolulu morning, all of us malihinis rise from our Royal Hawaiian beds. The surf is crashing in the sparkling sunshine. The coco palms bend and rustle in the steady pressure of the trade winds.

A mile or two out, the outrigger canoes catch a foaming white comb and ride it at racing speed to the beach.

You reach for the telephone and order: Papaya juice and broiled mahi mahi, fresh from the sea. Coffee and rolls and coconut jam. And the warm sea breeze sweeps through the room.

That is the way we live. On the beach at Waikiki.

The sea breeze sweeps along the black marble corridor. Past the shop windows of Hawaii-print swimming shorts, Hukouls and kukumus and all the brilliant tourist dress. Past the flower shop of flaming torch ginger and orange bird of paradise. And the record shop with the beat of guitars. And the bright colored prints of the photo shop.

Out on the lanai, Herb and Ollie Brook of Carmel, Calif., were opening the day with a coconut shell of day opener. They had just come up from Hawaii. From the Big Island where vanda orchids sell by the pound rather than by the flower.

They said there was a crippled albatross that hung around the Alhika Hotel at Kona. Named aptly enough, Albert Ross.

They reported that sugar cane planters had trouble with rats in the cane. The best thing to kill rats is a mongoose. So they imported mongoses. Or maybe mongoses? Anyway they imported one mongoose from India. Then they imported a lot more.

It seems there are different kinds. There is a kind of mongoose that sleeps in the daytime and hunts at night. And there is a mongoose that sleep at night and hunts in the daytime.

They got the kind that hunts in the daytime. Rats, however, only come out at night. So the said no more about probing the senator from Oklahoma.

Though Ferguson started out with a bang regarding a probe of McCarthy's tactic, he has now quietly decided that any committee reforms shall be "mutual consent." To this end he is currently in the process of calling up senate committee chairmen, asking them to please follow the rules of fair play.

In other words, the Republican Policy Committee is merely appealing to the same Senate committee chairmen who have been guilty of abuse in the past. No new rules or legislation will be adopted to curb or modify Senate investigations.

POSTAL PAY

You can jot it down for future reference that Postmaster General Arthur W. Summerfield's much-publicized plan to boost the pay of postal workers won't pass Congress—at least, in its present form.

Chief objection to Summerfield's $60,000,000 pay-boost plan is that too much of the $60,000,000 would go to the top brass in the postal service and too little to mailmen, clerks and other rank-and-file employees.

For example, the letter carrier, the backbone of the postal service, must be an authority on postal laws and regulations in addition to his important daily task of carrying the mail from Main Street to Wall Street. Yet he must have nine years' experience to qualify for a top pay of only $4,070 a year.

The same salary scale applies to postal clerks, who must know every town and village in the U.S.A. and the best rail route to reach it.

Yet, under the Summerfield proposal, a mailman or clerk with nine years' experience would be given a raise of only $100 a year, or less than $2 a week. A mailman or clerk with four years' experience would get $25 a year, or the equivalent of 48 cents a week. Those with three years' service would be given the munificent raise of $10 a year, or about 19 cents a week—not even enough to buy an extra quart of milk for their families.

It may or may not be significant, but the most substantial pay boost for letter carriers and clerks would go to those with only one year's service. They could get a $210 yearly hike. All, incidentally, were appointed under the Eisenhower administration.

CAPITOL CAPSULES

Eike's fact paper—President Eisenhower now sends out a "fact paper" to all bureau chiefs, giving the official White House policy on important questions. He has been working on a "fact paper" explaining what officials should say when asked about the very embarrassing question of the 2,200 so-called "security risks," which are now turning out to be about 10 per cent of that figure.

Big budget deficit—Assistant Director of the Budget Rowland Hughes has admitted behind closed doors that the Eisenhower budget was based on two assumptions: 1. That unemployment would remain between 2,000,000 and 2,500,000; 2. That there would be no change in the international situation. But unemployment has already soared over 3,500,000, and the crisis in Indo-China will cost trillions, the Eisenhower estimate (Copyright 1954 by Bell Syndicate)

Stories Of Famous Hymns

Stand Up For Jesus

Stand up, stand up for Jesus,
Ye soldiers of the cross;
Lift high His royal banner,
It must not suffer loss;
From victory unto victory
His army shall He lead,
Till every foe is vanquished,
And Christ is Lord indeed.

Stand up, stand up for Jesus,
The trumpet call obey;
Forth to the mighty conflict
In this His glorious day;
Ye that are men, now serve Him
Against unnumbered foes;
Your courage rise with danger,
And strength to strength oppose.

Stand up, stand up for Jesus,
The strife will not be long;
This day the noise of battle,
The next the victor's song;
To him that overcometh,
A crown of life shall be;
He with the King of Glory
Shall reign eternally.

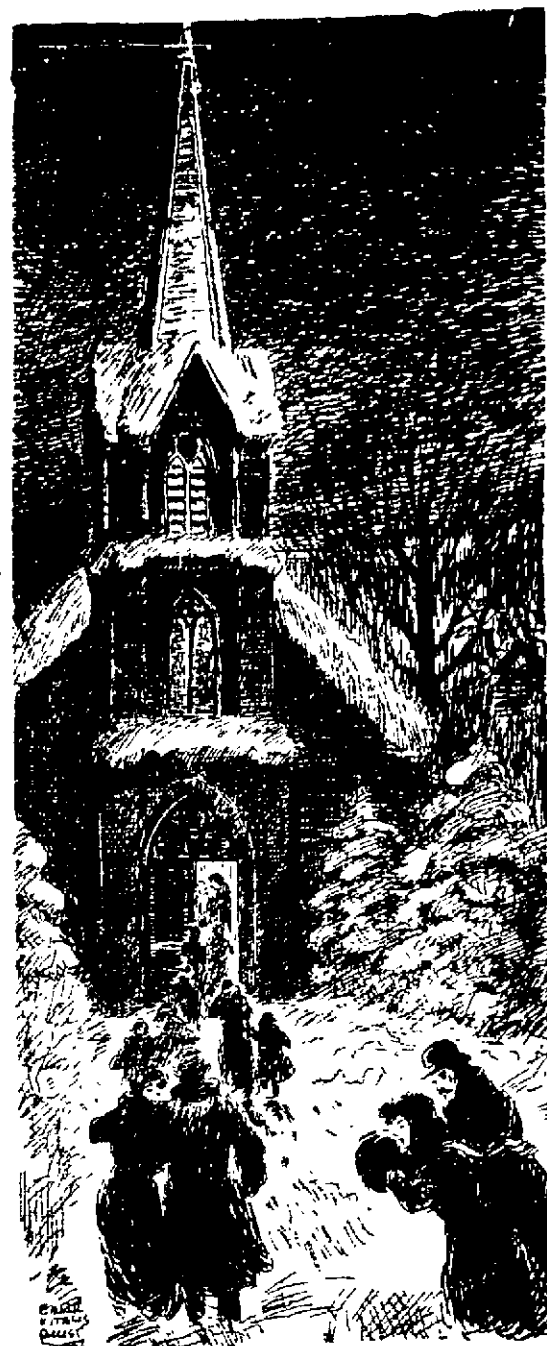

By HARACE B. POWELL

Pre-Civil War days brought a wave of evangelism to Philadelphia. One of the most zealous of the revivalists was the Rev. Dudley A. Tyng, a young preacher whose sermons won wide interest as the crusade progressed. Tyng made a great impression with a noon-day sermon which he preached one day in a down town hall to more than 5,000 men. Nearly 1,000 of his hearers were converted.

Less than a week after that memorable service, the youthful evangelist was fatally injured when his arm was crushed in a corn-shelling machine. As he lay dying, he asked a group of friends who had gathered at his bedside to join him in a farewell hymn. He himself led in the singing of the hymn, "Rock of Ages," and, when the song was done, his father asked him whether he did not have some message to leave with his comrades.

The young face on the pillow lighted up and the brave soldier of the cross whispered: "Tell them to stand up for Jesus!"

Dr. George Duffield, a member of the bedside group, remembered that message. Before the week was out, it became the inspiration for his famous hymn. On the following Sunday morning, as he finished a memorial sermon for his friend in the Presbyterian church of which he was pastor, he read the verses of "Stand Up, Stand Up For Jesus" to his congregation.

Charley Horse Cures

There's nothing like a charley horse to make you realize how many helpful people there are in the world.

Give a man a charley horse, and let the news of it be known, and the spirit of helpfulness oozes, gushes and erupts from unexpected crannies of humanity in a busy, selfish world.

The midwinter mail was bad enough, our postman declares, without adding charley horse recipes to it.

The mail brought everything from folders advertising massage machines to little personal notes advising the external application of a plaster made from mistletoe berries and glue. I can heartily recommend the latter as an effective way to remove excess hair from the shins. You've got to be careful though, that it doesn't remove the shins, too.

The reason I've delayed this progress report so long is that I've had to wait for the charley horse to strike. Mine did not come very often. I thought I had one a couple of weeks ago, but it turned out to be only Mrs. F. trying to pull me out of bed by my leg. We had been out late the night before.

Despairing of ever working up enough charley horses to test out all the cures suggested by all the people who were so graciously helpful, I selected one for the first trial, and waited. This one involved leaping out of bed to a standing position, rising to the toes with most of the weight on the affected limb, and gently flexing the muscle in a rocking up-and-down motion.

Trouble is, the lady who suggested this method said it had to be done fast, even before the charley horse victim was fully awake. She did not know, and I overlooked a vital factor—the mental fuzziness which is my outstanding characteristic when I am only half awake.

When the hour finally came, and the charley horse struck, I did leap out of bed, fast! I came down on my bare toes in a bowl of cracked nut shells carelessly left beside the bed the evening before. I went up again, like a ballet dancer, and this time came down in the middle of the bed with a walnut shell clinging to my big toe. Mrs. F. was in the middle of the bed.

She said, "Oof!" and came up swinging. I dived off the other side of the bed to safety. A minute later she found the light and turned it on. It took her a little longer to find me. When she did, she glared.

"What are you doing under the bed?" she demanded.

"Trying to get a walnut shell off of my big toe," I said, reasonably enough.

"How did it get there?"

"Well," I explained, "I had a charley horse."

Then it dawned on me. The charley horse was gone!

Perhaps, after all, the cure works.

Artist Johnson

Shelby, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: I was much interested in the article in the March 4, issue of The Lincoln Star on Thomas Johnson's art work. I have had the privilege of seeing Mr. Johnson's work and I was impressed with his color, technique, and sincerity of subject matter. I was not aware of his other talents besides painting, but I find his sculpture and ironwork most interesting and a relief from the functional design that is so fashionable today.

A refreshing note was the mention in the article that Mr. Johnson's oils obviate the fact that Lincoln has just as many possibilities for subject matter as any other place. This is very true; Lincoln has endless possibilities in subject matter, as does almost any place in Nebraska. Art that does not reflect the environment of the artist cannot be very vital. By this I am not referring necessarily to provincial subject matter or styles in art. Stuart Davis, Ben Sahn or Horace Pippin are every bit as American as Thomas Benton or Grant Wood.

Inflation Trends

Lincoln, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: During the campaign in 1952, it was thought that if we elected a Republican for President and a Congress of the same political affiliation, they would do something to stop inflation and go on a free enterprise basis, and that the consumers would profit thereby. But to date nothing has come from those promises; rather, the inflation is worse now. The two houses of Congress have passed a bill for 10 billion dollars for the CCC, the agency which lends money on farm crops and buys up surplus farm crops. The government now has about six billions invested in surpluses. Most of it they are paying storage on, and they don't know what to do with those products. The whole of their transactions results in inflation paid for by the consumers over the counter in the retail stores. The voters next will have something to say about this matter, and I don't think it will look well for the Republicans.

Of Men And Things

By J. E. LAWRENCE

Dan S. Jones, chief of Nebraska's Bureau of Irrigation, Water Power and Drainage, was back in Washington to throw his weight back of a bill sponsored by Sen. Hugh Butler to set up a compact program to administer development of the vast Missouri River Basin, which includes Nebraska. Mr. Jones says that Gov. Crosby favors the compact approach to basin development, supports the Butler bill. This is not to question that statement. But there is a question about the amount of study which the governor has given to this matter before he crawls out on a limb committing not only himself but the people of Nebraska to a program, which from Nebraska's standpoint is open to serious question.

Out here to the west of the Missouri, the compact approach to basin development can be made to look so sound, so logical, and with the use of a little bit of imagination, so beautiful on occasions. We hear it said that we do not want any federal bureaucrats sticking their fingers in our business. We want local control. We want to handle these matters locally—that is, up to a certain point. That point, by the way, is that we want to have all the say-so about what is or what is not done until it comes to paying the bill. We want Uncle Sam to pay the costs of these developments, lock, stock, and barrel—or to put it another way, we want all the people, east, west, north and south, living beyond the area of the Missouri Basin, to pay every penny of the costs of the developments while relinquishing any ideas that they may have relative to Missouri River Basin development.

We can think of no finer example of the noisy politician clamoring for the compact approach to basin development than former Gov. Barrett of Wyoming, now a member of the United States Senate. He is supporting the Butler bill. He thinks that Uncle Sam should give Wyoming all of the public domain within the borders of that state. A little more than a year ago, Gov. Barrett appeared as a witness before a commission which this writer served as chairman. The governor was asked what he thought Wyoming should contribute to Missouri River development. "Give us back our public domain and we will take care of our share of the costs," he answered. Now, Wyoming's public domain never was the property of the state of Wyoming. When Wyoming had territorial status, that public domain belonged to the federal government. When Wyoming became a state, it still belonged to the federal government. What Gov. Barrett meant was that Uncle Sam should GIVE what belongs to all the American people to Wyoming—not give it BACK.

There is one feature of the compact to which surely the people of Nebraska will desire to give some thought. Once entered into, any agreement by compact is difficult if not impossible to get aside, especially if the other party or the parties to the compact object. A state is stuck. No compact agreement for division of water can take into consideration future developments and future water requirements. Nebraska's irrigation needs, these property rights already established, 15 or 25 years hence may call for greater change of water than presently exists. But we have entered into a compact and have traded away our rights, and we will find that we can cool our heels from then on until some day after we have become a party to a compact, Arizona and California have been at it for years in a conflict over water from the Colorado Colorado.

From This Time On

The plain fact is, Nebraska is far ahead of Kansas, Wyoming, Colorado, the Dakotas, and Montana in the development of irrigation. Nebraska was pioneering in it long before those states awakened. Now, Gov. Crosby may personally favor the compact approach, but if the governor is fully conscious of this state's interests, he will want to give more thought than obviously he has at this time before recommending to any Nebraska legislature that it ratify compacts governing distribution of the waters of the Missouri. Water is gold in this state.

preciation on items of personal property suggests that at the end of the eighth year, 20 per cent of the purchase price should be accepted as the value, which would mean that it would be taxed on the basis of 10 per cent of the original purchase price.

Now, care might make a rug eight years old or older worth 10 per cent of the purchase price. We doubt it. We think that the greatest headache in connection with the personal property tax goes directly to determination of an honest value for household furnishings that have been in use for a considerable period of years. They may have a sentimental or a utilitarian value to the person owning them, but a secondhand furnishing, especially if it has been in use for five years or more, becomes obsolete in the market places and of little value.

The weeks ahead should provide some excitement and something by way of a new experience for Nebraskans.

Nebraska Lands In Sixth

In 1953, the news columns reveal, Nebraska ranked sixth among the 48 states of the Union in gross cash farm receipts. That could be the tonic to quiet a great many fears.

The ranking up one notch from seventh to sixth (neighboring Kansas with a wheat crop of more than 300 million bushels in 1952 nudged Nebraska out of sixth place) and the figure of gross cash farm receipts failed to tell all of the story; the kind of story welcome to the people of any state. Again in 1953 gross cash farm receipts in Nebraska were well above the billion-dollar mark—an objective Nebraska's rural peoples have been seeking each year. They may have a cheap dollar in terms of purchasing power but at least they have a lot of them, which is something they did not have when the farm program now under attack by Secretary of Agriculture Benson and his aides was not in existence. It would take a lot more convincing talk than the secretary has been capable of up to date to convert the bulk of rural people to his view of agriculture's destiny.

The record in this state is in itself a powerful argument that the secretary of agriculture is leading rural America into a financial wilderness. Nebraska never had a gross farm income of a billion dollars or more until the 'forties. The gross cash receipts in this state at the peak in all the years prior never exceeded $600 million annually, and generally were well below that figure. But in the 'forties we moved into an era when gross cash farm receipts hit the billion-dollar mark for the first time in more than 80 years of Nebraska development.

Now, two factors contributed to that record. One was years of abundant crops, good harvests, the product of a wet cycle, coupled with improved farming methods. The second factor was a relatively high price support program. Only five of the 28 states—Iowa, Illinois, Texas, California and Minnesota (the latter had another wet year in 1953)—exceeded Nebraska.

These figures are reassuring unless under the Benson leadership, a trend that came in with the present administration is intensified. Nationally farm income was less in 1953 than in 1952. The drop was 4 per cent.

Even more thought-arresting is the fact that the income of the farm population last year averaged $382 per person as compared with an average income of $1,898 for the non-farm population. In other words, the farm family was slipping again when it came to a fair share of the national income.

Political Note

This is going to be a great political year, a veritable bonanza for baby-kissing candidates. Never will they have had it so good. An old New England firm, leading the baby carriage industry, reports a 400 per cent increase in dollar volume over pre-war days. It had a $200,000 sales record in 1939. This jumped to $7 million last year.

Warren Confirmation

(From The St. Louis Post-Dispatch)

The long overdue confirmation of Earl Warren as Chief Justice of the United States closes a series of misadventures that does no credit to any of those responsible.

In the first place, Mr. Warren should not have been given a recess appointment last October. The highest office in our judiciary is a post important enough for the Senate to have met briefly in special session to pass on the nomination. The recess appointment, which appears to have been on the dubious advice of Atty. Gen. Brownell, played into the vindictive hands of Sen. Langer of North Dakota, chairman of the Judiciary Committee.

Thus Mr. Langer was able to hold up the nomination for six weeks after it finally went to the Senate. Then, before committee action, the appointment was smeared with a shocking lot of unconfirmed charges against the Chief Justice, all made public by Sen. Langer on his own initiative. To close the mistakes there was no roll call when the confirmation vote was taken. This was still another lapse since the office of Chief Justice is of such importance that it deserves a record vote.

With all these errors, behind, let the Supreme Court get on with the business of deciding the difficult case now before it. One thing Earl Warren as Chief Justice should be doing to do is to break the Supreme Court's habit of waiting until the end of the term and then plumping out a lot of controversial decisions at one time.

Rolling Up The Rug

In a few short days "Operation Honesty" will swing into action. The date when Nebraskans are scheduled to fill out reports, listing the value of personal property which they own is drawing near. That report is the basis for the payment of personal property taxes.

There can be no argument upon the desirability of "Operation Honesty." It would be just as sensible to undertake a defense of sin as it would to defend tax chiseling or dishonesty in the filing of a tax schedule. We have the feeling that thousands of Nebraskans are scratching their heads at this time. They are fine Nebraskans, men and women of the highest repute, honest and conscientious. One little example will illustrate their present perplexity.

The floors of their homes may be covered with rugs or with carpet. They are told that in the matter of depreciation, they should follow a certain formula. That formula of depreciation on items of personal property suggests that at the end of the eighth year, 20 per cent of the purchase price should be accepted as the value, which would mean that it would be taxed on the basis of 10 per cent of the original purchase price.

We want Uncle Sam to pay the costs of these developments, lock, stock, and barrel—or to put it another way, we want all the people, east, west, north and south, living beyond the area of the Missouri Basin, to pay every penny of the costs of the developments while relinquishing any ideas that they may have relative to Missouri River Basin development.

We can think of no finer example of the noisy politician clamoring for the compact approach to basin development than former Gov. Barrett of Wyoming, now a member of the United States Senate. He is supporting the Butler bill. He thinks that Uncle Sam should give Wyoming all of the public domain within the borders of that state. A little more than a year ago, Gov. Barrett appeared as a witness before a commission which this writer served as chairman. The governor was asked what he thought Wyoming should contribute to Missouri River development. "Give us back our public domain and we will take care of our share of the costs," he answered. Now, Wyoming's public domain never was the property of the state of Wyoming. When Wyoming had territorial status, that public domain belonged to the federal government. When Wyoming became a state, it still belonged to the federal government. What Gov. Barrett meant was that Uncle Sam should GIVE what belongs to all the American people to Wyoming—not give it BACK.

There is one feature of the compact to which surely the people of Nebraska will desire to give some thought. Once entered into, any agreement by compact is difficult if not impossible to set aside, especially if the other party or the parties to the compact object. A state is stuck. No compact agreement for division of water can take into consideration future developments and future water requirements. Nebraska's irrigation needs, those property rights already established, 15 or 25 years hence may call for greater storage capacity than presently exists. But we have entered into a compact and we have traded away our rights, and we will find that we can cool our heels from then on until doom's day after we have become a party to a compact. Arizona and California have been at it for years in a conflict over water from the lower Colorado.

The plain fact is, Nebraska is far ahead of Kansas, Wyoming, Colorado, the Dakotas, and Montana in the development of irrigation. Nebraska was pioneering in it long before those states awakened. Now, Gov. Crosby may personally favor the compact approach, but if the governor is fully conscious of this state's interests, he will want to give more thought than obviously he has at this time before recommending to any Nebraska legislature that it ratify compacts governing distribution of the waters of the Missouri. Water is gold in this state.

Campos Free Lest He Be Seen As A Martyr

WASHINGTON—When naive, fair-minded Secretary of the Army Stevens huddled with Republican members of Sen. McCarthy's investigating committee, Sen. Mundt of South Dakota tried out their mutual agreement with three fingers on a typewriter. In it he inserted a paragraph that the trouble inside the Army—over Major Peress, General Zwicker, etc.—was all the fault of the previous administration, referring of course to Truman days.

"No," remonstrated Secretary Stevens, "that was not the case, and it would not be fair to say so."

INSANE PUERTO RICAN

Puerto Rico's statesmanlike Gov. Luis Munoz-Marin has been asked why he released nationalist leader Albizu Campos from jail last September despite the fact that Campos lived for two years in the home of Oscar Colazo, one of the two nationalists who tried to kill President Truman in 1950 and who also plotted against Munoz-Marin.

Discussing this with me, Gov. Munoz explained:

"Campos had become a martyr to many people and the longer he remained in jail, the more martyrdom he assumed. Actually he was a mental case. And now that he is released from jail, people can see how crazy he is and no longer take him seriously."

"While in jail, Campos wore cold towels around his head to protect him—so he claimed—from atomic rays from the United States," Gov. Munoz explained. "He was convinced that the United States government was directing atomic rays into his jail cell to kill him."

"Now that he is out of jail, he still wears the towels around his head, and of course people realize that if the United States had the power to direct such a ray they would have used it first perhaps on such a person as Joe Stalin. So he has become quite ludicrous to the people who once looked up to him as a great martyr."

NO CURB ON SENATE PROBES

Sen. Ferguson of Michigan, chairman of the powerful Republican policy committee of the Senate, seemed to mean business when he announced an overhaul of Senate investigative procedure. He even told newsmen that the overhaul was aimed at Sen. McCarthy's methods. It was also made known that the President himself wanted such an overhaul.

However, the charming senator from Michigan is not a man who shows great determination when put on the hot spot as far as other senators are concerned. One day, when he was chairman of the committee McCarthy now presides over, Ferguson let it be known he would probe the speculation of Sen. Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma, a Democrat who used his high place on the Senate Agriculture Committee to speculate in cotton and other farm products.

Though Ferguson actually started to probe, he suddenly called it off.

His right-about-face took place after receiving a letter from Sen. Thomas—subsequently published in this column—in which Thomas told him he knew of certain favors received by the Ferguson family from the Chrysler company in Detroit.

After receipt of the Thomas letter, the senator from Michigan

said no more about probing the senator from Oklahoma.

Though Ferguson started out with a bang regarding a probe of McCarthy's tactics, he has quietly decided that any committee reforms shall be "mutual consent." To this end he is currently in the process of calling up senate committee chairmen, asking them to please follow the rules of fair play.

In other words, the Republican Policy Committee is merely appealing to the same Senate committee chairmen who have been guilty of abuse in the past. No new rules or legislation will be adopted to curb or modify Senate investigations.

POSTAL PAY

You can get it down for future reference that Postmaster General A. J. Clegg's Summerfield's much-publicized plan to boost the pay of postal workers won't pass Congress—at least, in its present form.

Chief objection to Summerfield's $60,000,000 pay-boost plan is that too much of the $60,000,000 would go to the top brass in the postal service and too little to mailmen, clerks and other rank-and-file employees.

For example, the letter carrier, the backbone of the postal service, must be an authority on postal laws and regulations in addition to his important daily task of carrying the mail from Main Street to Wall Street. Yet he must have nine years' experience to qualify for a top pay of only $4,070 a year.

The same salary scale applies to postal clerks, who must know every town and village in the U.S.A. and the best rail route to reach it.

Yet, under the Summerfield proposal, a mailman or clerk with nine years' experience would be given a raise of only $100 a year, or less than $2 a week. A mailman or clerk with four years' experience would get $25 a year, or the equivalent of 48 cents a week. Those with three years' service would be given the municipal raise of $10 a year, or about 19 cents a week—not even enough to buy an extra quart of milk for their families.

It may or may not be significant, but the most substantial pay boost for letter carriers and clerks would go to those with only one year's service. They would get a $210 yearly hike. All, incidentally, were appointed under the Eisenhower administration.

CAPITOL CAPSULES

Ike's fact paper — President Eisenhower now sends out a "fact paper" to all bureau chiefs, giving the official White House policy on important questions. He has been working on a "fact paper" explaining what officials should say when asked about the very embarrassing question of the 2,200 so-called "security risks" which are now turning out to be about 10 per cent of that figure.

Big budget deficit — Assistant Director of the Budget Rowland Hughes has admitted behind closed doors that the Eisenhower budget was based on two assumptions: 1. That unemployment would remain between 2,000,000 and 2,500,000; 2. That there would be no change in the international situation. But unemployment has already soared over 3,500,000, and the crisis in Indo-China will cost triple the Eisenhower estimate (Copyright 1954 by Bell Syndicate)

From Hawaii

At about 8 o'clock of the Honolulu morning, all of us malihinis rise from our Royal Hawaiian beds. The surf is crashing in the sparkling sunshine. The coco palms bend and rustle in the steady pressure of the trade winds.

A tide or two out, the outrigger canoes catch a foaming white comber and ride it at racing speed to the beach.

You reach for the telephone and order: Papaya juice and broiled mahi mahi, fresh from the sea. Coffee and rolls and coconut jam. And the warm sea breeze sweeps through the room.

That is the way we live. On the beach at Waikiki.

The sea breeze sweeps along the black marble corridor. Past the shop windows of Hawaii-print swimming shorts. Hokulua and pukumenu and all the brilliant tourist dress. Past the flower shop of flaming torch ginger and orange bird of paradise. And the record shop with the beat of guitars. And the bright colored prints of the photo shop.

Out on the lanai, Herb and Ollie Brook of Carmel, Calif., were opening the day with a coconut shell of day opener. They had just come up from Hawaii. From the Big Island where vanda orchids sell by the pound rather than by the flower.

They said there was a crippled albatross that hung around the Lihikai Hotel at Kona. Named aptly enough, Albert Ross.

They reported that sugar cane planters had trouble with rats in the cane. The best thing to kill rats is a mongoose. So they imported mongooses. Or maybe mongooses? Anyway they imported one mongoose from India. Then they imported a lot more.

It seems there are different kinds. There is a kind of mongoose that sleeps in the daytime and hunts at night. And there is a mongoose that sleep at night and hunts in the daytime.

They got the kind that hunts in the daytime. Rats, however, only come out at night. So the first mongoose (and all the others that came with him) had no truck with the cane rats at all.

They would not work nights. Just like they had a union.

Now the Big Island not only has mongooses, it has a whole bunch more. More than they want.

I don't know that this proves anything. But it might help a dull dinner conversation along. Also it is a tricky way to handle a mongoose. And a lot more.

At noon, all the tourist malihinis sit out on the lanai and belt the coconut cake. The coconut cake at the Royal Hawaiian is the greatest in the world. I am weak on a mongoose. But I am an expert on coconut cake.

In the afternoon, we all go swimming. We try to get several shades darker. So the waiter captains will mistake us for pure Hawaiians.

So far no waiter captain has ever made such a mistake. But we are hopeful. We rub ourselves with oil and French fry, turning gently on the sand like chicken on the spit.

We pick up Hawaiian words: Malihini for newcomer. Kamaaina for oldtimer. Haele for white person and hapa haele for the mixture. Pilikia for trouble. Kau kau for food. Pupule for crazy. And pau for finish.

For Number One Hawaiian, you have to use a mixture. Brought in here by 46,000 Chinese, 18,000 Portuguese (who brought guitar and developed the ukulele), 8,000 Koreans, 6,000 Puerto Ricans, 8,000 Spaniards and 180,000 Japanese.

"Little Red Riding Hood she go grandma house. Grandma no stop. She stop along wolf opu. Wolf he fix kau kau grandma. Riding Hood she spit wolf: 'You too much big tee' got'. He spit: 'Better fix you kau kau, keed. You pau'."

Not the way King Kamehameha would have said it. But when the rum is in the coconut shell and the guitars are sliding, that's the way I tell it. (McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

Stand Up For Jesus

Stand up, stand up for Jesus,
Ye soldiers of the cross;
Lift high His royal banner,
It must not suffer loss;
From victory unto victory
His army shall He lead,
Till every foe is vanquished,
And Christ is Lord indeed.

Stand up, stand up for Jesus,

The trumpet call obey;
Forth to the mighty conflict
In this His glorious day;
Ye that are men, now serve Him
Against unnumbered foes;
Your courage rise with danger,
And strength to strength oppose.

Stand up, stand up for Jesus,

The strife will not be long;
This day the noise of battle;
The next the victor's song;
To him that overcometh,
A crown of life shall be;
He with the King of Glory
Shall reign eternally.

By HARACE B. POWELL

Pre-Civil War days brought a wave of evangelism to Philadelphia. One of the most zealous of the revivalists was the Rev. Dudley A. Tyng, a young preacher whose sermons won wide interest as the crusade progressed. Tyng made a great impression with a noon-day sermon which he preached one day in a down town hall to more than 5,000 men. Nearly 1,000 of his hearers were converted.

Less than a week after that memorable service, the youthful evangelist was fatally injured when his arm was crushed in a corn-shelling machine. As he lay dying, he asked a group of friends who had gathered at his bedside to join him in a farewell hymn. He himself led in the singing of the hymn, "Rock of Ages", and, when the song was done, his father asked him whether he did not have some message to leave with his comrades.

The young face on the pillow lighted up and the brave soldier of the cross whispered: "Tell them to stand up for Jesus!"

Dr. George Duffield, a member of the bedside group, remembered that message. Before the week was out, it became the inspiration for his famous hymn. On the following Sunday morning, as he finished a memorial sermon for his friend in the Presbyterian church of which he was pastor, he read the verses of "Stand Up, Stand Up For Jesus" to his congregation.

Charley Horse Cures

There's nothing like a charley horse to make you realize how many helpful people there are in the world.

Give a man a charley horse, and let the news of it be known, and the spirit of helpfulness oozes, gushes and erupts from unexpected crannies of humanity in a busy, selfish world.

The midwinter mail was bad enough, our postman declares, without adding charley horse recipes to it.

The mail brought everything from folders advertising massage machines to little personal notes advising the external application of a plaster made from mistletoe berries and glue. I can heartily recommend the latter as an effective way to remove excess hair from the shins. You've got to be careful though, that it doesn't remove the shins, too.

I went up again, like a ballet dancer, and this time came down in the middle of the bed with a walnut shell clinging to my big toe. Mrs. F. was in the middle of the bed.

"What are you doing under the bed?" she demanded.

"Trying to get a walnut shell off of my big toe," I said, reasonably enough.

"How did it get there?"

"Well," I explained, "I had a charley horse."

Then it dawned on me. The charley horse was gone! Perhaps, after all, the cure works.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: During the campaign in 1952, it was thought that if we elected a Republican for President and a Congress of the same political affiliation, they would do something to stop inflation and go on a free enterprise basis, and that the consumers would profit thereby. But to date nothing has come from those promises; rather, the inflation is worse now. The two houses of Congress have passed a bill for 10 billion dollars for the CCC, the agency which lends money on farm crops and buys up surplus farm crops. The government now has about six billions invested in surpluses. Most of it they are paying storage on, and they don't know what to do with those products. The whole of their transactions results in inflation paid for by the consumers over the counter in the retail stores. The voters next will have something to say about this matter, and I don't think it will look well for the Republicans.

Godfrey's Flight License Suspended For 6 Months

Entertainer Will Make No Appeal

WASHINGTON (U)—A Civil Aeronautics Board examiner threw the book at Arthur Godfrey Friday for "reckless" flying, recommending that he be grounded for six months. This is the stiffest available penalty.

In New York, the radio-tele-vision star said through a spokesman that he would not appeal. If no appeal is filed by March 15, the finding of the examiner, Albert H. Ruppard, will become the final decision of the five-man board and Godfrey's pilot's certificate will be suspended for six months.

Ruppard said he was convinced, from the evidence submitted by Godfrey and by the Civil Aeronautics Administration in its complaint, that Godfrey intentionally buzzed the Teterboro, N. J., Airport control tower with his twin-engine DC-3 on a takeoff Jan. 7.

Flight Test Ordered

Ruppard also noted that Godfrey's CAA medical certificate had expired in July, 1951, and said the entertainer had flown in violation of the regulations since that time.

The examiner ordered that Godfrey be given a CAA flight test to qualify as a DC-3 pilot, and that he also be required to obtain a medical certificate qualifying before suspension of his private pilot's certificate is lifted.

Ruppard went considerably beyond the CAA complaint, which had asked that Godfrey's pilot certificate be suspended for "no less" than 30 days, and had accused the performer merely of "careless" flying.

Ruppard said the evidence required that a finding be made of "reckless operation."

Special Pains Taken

The CAB took particular pains to make sure that Godfrey learned of the examiner's finding directly, rather than from newspaper or radio reports.

It withheld the examiner's "initial decision" until it had been assured by Godfrey's attorneys that the document had been read by long distance telephone to Godfrey in New York.

Then Godfrey's morning program was monitored carefully for any mention of the case. Godfrey's only reference to it, on the program, was an offhand remark that he had heard that something unpleasant was about to happen to him.

Accepted 'Respectfully'

At New York, a spokesman for Godfrey issued this statement: "Twenty years ago when he got his first license, Mr. Godfrey like every other pilot automatically went under the jurisdiction of the governing body of CAB. He now respectfully accepts the decision of the examiner."

The spokesman said later the statement would stand even though the ruling was not final. He said flatly that Godfrey "will not appeal."

If no appeal is filed, the six-month certificate suspension will take effect March 16.

The CAA complained that Godfrey, angered because the Teterboro control tower refused him permission to take off from the runway of his choice, flew his plane dangerously close to the tower and, in doing so, narrowly missed three airplanes waiting to take off.

Personnel Frightened

Persons in the tower were so frightened they fled to lower levels or flattened themselves on the floor.

Godfrey, in a formal reply to the complaint, said gusts of wind across the runway buffeted the plane and caused it to veer. He argued that had he not turned toward the tower after taking off, it might have been out of his line of vision and he would have been in danger of colliding with it.

Six witnesses said in written evidence, they heard Godfrey reply, when asked by the tower if he had had mechanical trouble, "No, that's a normal takeoff for Teterboro."

It withheld the examiner's "initial decision" until it had been assured by Godfrey's attorneys that the document had been read by long distance telephone to Godfrey in New York.

Then Godfrey's morning program was monitored carefully for any mention of the case. Godfrey's only reference to it, on the program, was an offhand remark that he had heard that something unpleasant was about to happen to him.

Accepted 'Respectfully'

At New York, a spokesman for Godfrey issued this statement: "Twenty years ago when he got his first license, Mr. Godfrey like every other pilot automatically went under the jurisdiction of the governing body of CAB. He now respectfully accepts the decision of the examiner."

The spokesman said later the statement would stand even though the ruling was not final. He said flatly that Godfrey "will not appeal."

If no appeal is filed, the six-month certificate suspension will take effect March 16.

The CAA complained that Godfrey, angered because the Teterboro control tower refused him permission to take off from the runway of his choice, flew his plane dangerously close to the tower and, in doing so, narrowly missed three airplanes waiting to take off.

Personnel Frightened

Persons in the tower were so frightened they fled to lower levels or flattened themselves on the floor.

Godfrey, in a formal reply to the complaint, said gusts of wind across the runway buffeted the plane and caused it to veer. He argued that had he not turned toward the tower after taking off, it might have been out of his line of vision and he would have been in danger of colliding with it.

Six witnesses said in written evidence, they heard Godfrey reply, when asked by the tower if he had had mechanical trouble, "No, that's a normal takeoff for Teterboro."

WASHINGTON (U)—A Civil Aeronautics Board examiner threw the book at Arthur Godfrey Friday for "reckless" flying, recommending that he be grounded for six months. This is the stiffest available penalty.

In New York, the radio-tele-vision star said through a spokesman that he would not appeal. If no appeal is filed by March 15, the finding of the examiner, Albert H. Ruppard, will become the final decision of the five-man board and Godfrey's pilot's certificate will be suspended for six months.

Ruppard said he was convinced, from the evidence submitted by Godfrey and by the Civil Aeronautics Administration in its complaint, that Godfrey intentionally buzzed the Teterboro, N. J., Airport control tower with his twin-engine DC-3 on a takeoff Jan. 7.

Flight Test Ordered

Ruppard also noted that Godfrey's CAA medical certificate had expired in July, 1951, and said the entertainer had flown in violation of the regulations since that time.

The examiner ordered that Godfrey be given a CAA flight test to qualify as a DC-3 pilot, and that he also be required to obtain a medical certificate qualifying before suspension of his private pilot's certificate is lifted.

Ruppard went considerably beyond the CAA complaint, which had asked that Godfrey's pilot certificate be suspended for "no less" than 30 days, and had accused the performer merely of "careless" flying.

Ruppard said the evidence required that a finding be made of "reckless operation."

Special Pains Taken

The CAB took particular pains to make sure that Godfrey learned of the examiner's finding directly, rather than from newspaper or radio reports.

It withheld the examiner's "initial decision" until it had been assured by Godfrey's attorneys that the document had been read by long distance telephone to Godfrey in New York.

Meet Star Carrier Mike Crawford

Star Carrier Mike Crawford, son of Mrs. Phyllis N. Crawford, is the successful carrier-salesman of Route 727 which lies between Sheridan and Cooper Avenues and 33rd and 44th streets.

Mike is 13 years old, an eighth grade student at College View High School, and a member of the Grace Evangelical Lutheran Church. Being his own thriving newspaper business he also reads fiction and detective stories, builds model planes, and is an accomplished woodworker. He recently finished a "Pump Lamp" which is quite a work of skill.

Mike is an active member of Scout Troop 30 and ranks as First Class. He attended Scout Camp at Camp Cedars last summer and had a swell time learning about the out-of-doors. A commendable accomplishment of his is being named to the honor roll every semester.

Mike can't quite decide which he would rather be, a lawyer, minister, or a radioman in the Navy. He has plenty of time to decide which of these fields to follow but he is preparing now to achieve success in the chosen one by saving part of his $25 profit every four weeks. He also provides for his own entertainment and buys his own necessities from this profit. Mike feels that his profit is just one of the many useful advantages of carrying a Star route because he has also learned to manage a business properly and is meeting many friends in the customers he serves.

Any boy wanting a Lincoln Star route should apply at the Star circulation department, 926 "P," Lincoln, Neb.

The decision was handed down in a case in which a jury returned a verdict in favor of Hamilton County for $2,000 against a man whose wife had been a patient at the Hastings State Hospital since 1929.

Other cases decided Friday:

Lincoln County—L. E. Simpson, doing business as Raven Sales Company, against John J. Meier Company and Interstate Bakeries Corporation: District Court's dismissal of suit for damages to truck near Council Bluffs, Ia., in 1951 upheld.

Lincoln County—Lucy V. Barrett against Vaughn Hand: District Court's dismissal of suit to union tearing down certain fences modified.

Butte County—Estate of Marian Elaine Gilliland: Jury award of $5,250 for death in an automobile accident between Kearney and Shelton in 1952 upheld.

Godfrey's Flight License Suspended For 6 Months

Entertainer Will Make No Appeal

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Civil Aeronautics Board examiner threw the book at Arthur Godfrey Friday for "reckless" flying, recommending that he be grounded for six months.

This is the stiffest available penalty. In New York, the television star said through a spokesman that he would not appeal. If no appeal is filed by March 15, the finding of the examiner, Albert H. Ruppard, will become the final decision of the five-man board and Godfrey's pilot's certificate will be suspended for six months.

Ruppard said he was convinced, from the evidence submitted by Godfrey and by the Civil Aeronautics Administration in its complaint, that Godfrey intentionally buzzed The Teterboro, N. J., Airport control tower with his twin-engine D-C3 on a takeoff Jan. 7.

Flight Test Ordered
Ruppard also noted that Godfrey's CAA medical certificate had expired in July, 1951, and said the entertainer had flown in violation of the regulations since that time.

The examiner ordered that Godfrey be given a CAA flight test to qualify as a DC-3 pilot, and that he also be required to obtain a medical certificate showing his physical flying qualifications, before suspension of his private pilot's certificate is lifted.

Ruppard went considerably beyond the CAA complaint, which had asked that Godfrey's pilot certificate be suspended for "no less" than 30 days, and had accused the performer merely of "careless" flying.

Ruppard said the evidence required that a finding be made also of "reckless operation."

Special Pains Taken
The CAB took particular pains to make sure that Godfrey learned of the examiner's finding directly, rather than from newspaper or radio reports.

It withheld the examiner's "initial decision" until it had been assured by Godfrey's attorneys that the document had been read by long distance telephone to Godfrey in New York.

Then Godfrey's morning program was monitored carefully for any mention of the case. Godfrey's only reference to it, on the program, was an offhand remark that he had heard that something unpleasant was about to happen to him.

Omaha Police Officer Dismissed After Hearing

OMAHA (AP)—Patrolman John M. Wiles, accused of conduct unbecoming an officer, was dismissed from the Omaha Police Force Friday by Acting Chief Ray Strong following an administrative hearing.

Wiles earlier was suspended in connection with an investigation prompted by the reports of two railroad men that some Omaha police might be involved in a burglary ring. A transaction involving a rifle, allegedly stolen, was reported to have taken place at Wiles' home although Wiles was not present at the time.

Strong said Wiles had shown both utter disrespect for his commanding officers and had failed to show ordinary diligence to know what was on his premises, stolen or otherwise.

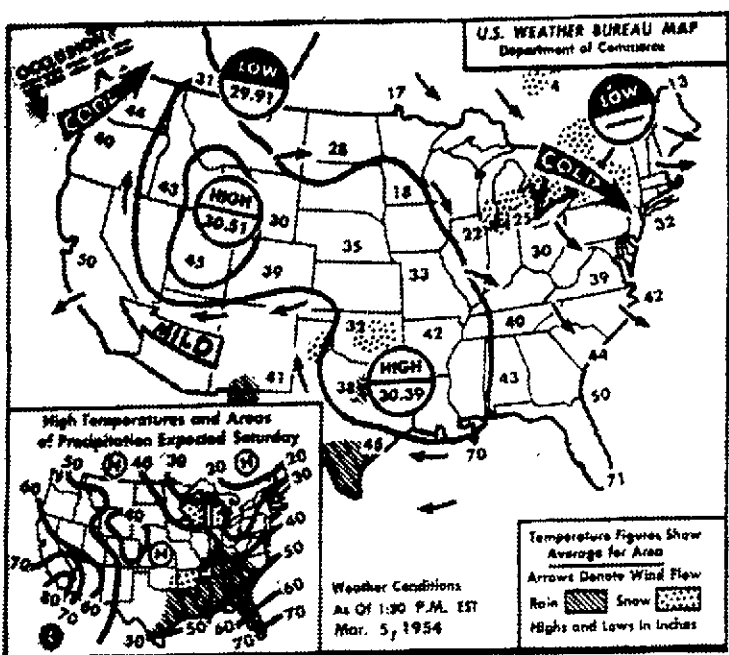

Later Friday Albert Lustgarten, attorney for Wiles, said Wiles will appeal to the Police Civil Service Commission on grounds that the police investigation failed to show any tangible connection between Wiles and any stolen property.

Only Charge Filed

No other charges have been filed against any policemen as a result of the investigation. Police Commissioner Harold Caldwell has said the investigation is completed.

In another development Friday the Douglas County attorney's office won a two-week delay in the preliminary hearing for Pete Villarreal, former police employee charged with receiving stolen property.

The Villarreal hearing was before Municipal Judge Patrick O'Connor. Deputy County Attorney Robert O'Connor said he needed more time to gather facts to complete the investigation. Judge O'Connor set the hearing for March 19 at the City Hall.

It will continue cold in the northeast and turn warmer in central portion of the U. S. Saturday. Snow and rain are due in Gulf states and South Atlantic section while cloudiness will increase through the Middle Atlantic states. Snow flurries will continue in Lakes states. ## Clear Title Refused By High Court

By SALLY ADAMS
Star Staff Writer

Morale is very low in York. The state Supreme Court decision Friday denying York College clear title to the land on which the college stands seems to have upset the entire town.

"The loss of the college would have a great effect on the community," Fred A. Langenheim, manager of the Chamber of Commerce told The Star.

The college furnishes educational and cultural advantage as well as being a type of industry, he said.

York Mayor Lloyd Livingston said, "We feel bad about it. We really didn't expect it to go that way. The citizens really are disappointed. They would like to see them keep the college here."

Livingston said he believed there will be an attempt made to keep the college either under the present set-up or a new one.

'Financial Asset'

"If the college goes we will lose a good friend and a financial asset to the city," E. A. Levitt, York businessman and member of the college's board of trustees, said.

When the Supreme Court announced its decision, the school's president, A. V. Howland said he couldn't see any way of going ahead.

Howland said action will be determined at a meeting called for 10 a.m. Tuesday. All 34 members of the board of trustees, including the president, Bishop Ira D. Warner of Whittier, Calif., are expected to be on hand.

The president said there was another alternative. He said he would seek a conference with state officials to see whether the attorney general might be willing to grant the college a clear title after land has reverted to York County under terms of the trust.

May Close This Spring
Otherwise, he predicted, the college will close down this spring.

The Supreme Court's decision grew out of action by the college in which it sought removal of the prohibition against encumbrance or alienation of the land making up the campus at York.

The property was given to the college by E. M. Cheney in 1892 with the provision that the land would revert to York County if any attempt were made to mortgage or sell it.

The original adverse ruling was made in District Court. The

In an effort to foster local interest in art, the second annual art exhibit opened Friday in Fairbury. lower court had held that changing circumstances did not prevent a situation calling for a deviation from the terms of the original trust, and that the primary intention of the donor of the land was the operation of a college subject to certain restrictions stated in the deed.

District Court Upheld
The Supreme Court action upheld the ruling of the District Court.

Judge Paul Boslaugh, in writing the opinion for the Supreme Court, said, "If the dominant purpose of a charitable trust is certain, as it is in this instrument, it will not be denied execution because of the absence of perfection of detail or the presence of unnecessary and immaterial inappropriate language in the instrument evidencing the trust."

The Supreme Court concluded: "The principles applicable to public charities require courts to look beyond the institutions or trustees designed to take or administer the property given and the particular manner of its administration to those for whose benefit it is to be administered."

"The instances are numerous in which the organization to which the gift was to go and by whom it was to be administered would not or could not accept or perform the trust, but it did not fail because the machinery for carrying it into effect was deficient.

One of the chief problems raised by the clouded title was that of financing the college's building program.

The college's administration building was totally destroyed by fire in 1951, leaving only four buildings left on the campus. The school does not have sufficient resources to permit it to construct a new administration building.

The Evangelical United Brethren Church, which sponsors the school, and its members have refused to contribute to the support of the college or to the cost of construction of a new building.

They claim the trustees did not have a clear title to the real estate to give them the authority to raise necessary funds. The college has an enrollment of about 200 and a faculty of about 40.

Banner Petition Follows Defeat For New School

HARRISBURG, Neb. (AP)—Backers of a new Banner County High School have already mustered 202 signatures for another election on a $254,000 bond issue defeated in an election this week.

The petition was presented at a meeting of high school regents.

The bond issue would have financed construction of a new high school. The vote was 223 for and 220 against, but a 55 per cent majority was required for passage.

The law provides that a special election is mandatory if 10 per cent of the voters petition for such an election. However, regents have tabled the petition pending discussion of the matter with school district patrons.

Homestead Law Protects Home For Widow, 89

AURORA, Neb. (AP)—A District Court judge has ruled that a Nebraska homestead law protects an 89-year-old widow from being dispossessed from her home for a coal bill incurred years ago.

The coal bill was among claims William A. Ehlers of Omaha bought from a bankrupt lumber company for $29 in the early 1930s. With accumulating court costs through years of litigation, the original $82.55 claim against Mrs. Campbell had grown to $334.47.

Bombs Used To Break Up Ice Jam At Fremont 30 Years Ago

FREMONT, Neb. (AP)—Thirty years ago Friday the Platte River near North Bend was running smoothly, but it took the combined efforts of the Army, volunteers and engineers to get the job done.

Huge ice gorges near North Bend had sent flood water swirling over farmland and washed out a mile of Union Pacific tracks, observers recalled. Volunteers in boats rescued at least eight farm families.

Then on March 4, an Army plane from Ft. Crook at Omaha was called in. It dropped a dozen bombs, each weighing 300 pounds.

At the time, it was recalled, Army officers said the amount of dynamite dropped to break up the flows was enough to "blow up a fleet of warships."

In two days of operation, the bombers opened the channel from Richmond to Waterloo.

"It was the most successful experiment of its kind ever attempted," said Maj. L. S. Churchill, who directed the operation. "Ice bombing was attempted only once before, in the Susquehanna River, but the results were not as successful as in the Platte," he said.

Art Show Gets Under Way At Fairbury

which is sponsoring the show. More than 200 paintings, including Lincoln Artist Dave Manrose's paintings of Mamie Eisenhower and Queen Elizabeth, are on exhibit in the show which continues Saturday and Sunday in the Deger building. Fairbury merchants are co-operating in sponsoring the show. (Star Staff Photo) lower court had held that changing circumstances did not present a situation calling for a deviation from the terms of the original trust, and that the primary intention of the donor of the land was the operation of a college subject to certain restrictions stated in the deed.

District Court Upheld

The Supreme Court action upheld the ruling of the District Court.

Judge Paul Boslaugh, in writing the opinion for the Supreme Court, said, "If the dominant purpose of a charitable trust is certain, as it is in this instrument, it will not be denied execution because of the absence of perfection of detail or the presence of unnecessary and immaterial inappropriate language in the instrument evidencing the trust."

The Supreme Court concluded: "The principles applicable to public charities require courts to look beyond the institutions or trustees designed to take or administer the property given and the particular manner of its administration to those for whose benefit it is to be administered."

"The instances are numerous in which the organization to which the gift was to go and by whom it was to be administered would not or could not accept or perform the trust, but it did not fail because the machinery for carrying it into effect was deficient."

One of the chief problems raised by the clouded title was that of financing the college's building program.

The college's administration building was totally destroyed by fire in 1951, leaving only four buildings left on the campus. The school does not have sufficient resources to permit it to construct a new administration building.

The Evangelical United Brethren Church, which sponsors the school, and its members have refused to contribute to the support of the college or to the cost of construction of a new building.

They claim the trustees did not have a clear title to the real estate to give them the authority to raise necessary funds. The college has an enrollment of about 200 and a faculty of about 40.

Banner Petition Follows Defeat For New School

HARRISBURG, Neb. (P)—Backers of a new Banner County High School have already mustered 202 signatures for another election on a $254,000 bond issue defeated in an election this week.

The petition was presented at a meeting of high school regents.

The bond issue would have financed construction of a new high school. The vote was 223 for and 220 against, but a 55 percent majority was required for passage.

The law provides that a special election is mandatory if 10 percent of the voters petition for such an election. However, regents have tabled the petition pending discussion of the matter with school district patrons.

Homestead Law Protects Home For Widow, 89

AURORA, Neb. (P)—A District Court judge has ruled that a Nebraska homestead law protects an 89-year-old widow from being dispossessed from her home for a coal bill incurred years ago.

Judge E. G. Kroger of Grand Island held in District Court here that Mrs. Lavina Campbell's home at nearby Hordville is worth less than $1,000 and is protected from lien.

The coal bill was among claims William A. Ehlers of Omaha bought from a bankrupt lumber company for $29 in the early 1930s. With accumulating court costs through years of litigation, the original $82.55 claim against Mrs. Campbell had grown to $334.47.

Bombs Used To Break Up Ice Jam At Fremont 30 Years Ago

FREMONT, Neb. (P)—Thirty years ago Friday the Platte River near North Bend was running smoothly, but it took the combined efforts of the Army, volunteers and engineers to get the job done.

Huge ice gorges near North Bend had sent flood water swirling over farmland and washed out a mile of Union Pacific tracks, observers recalled. Volunteers in boats rescued at least eight farm families.

Then on March 4, an Army plane from Ft. Crook at Omaha was called in. It dropped a dozen bombs, each weighing 300 pounds.

At the time, it was recalled. Army officers said the amount of dynamite dropped to break up the floes was enough to "blow up a fleet of warships."

In two days of operation, the bombers opened the channel from Richland to Waterloo.

"It was the most successful experiment of its kind ever attempted," said Maj. L. S. Churchill, who directed the operation. "Ice bombing was attempted only once before, in the Susquehanna River, but the results were not as successful as in the Platte," he said.

—“Does Your Child Sometimes Puzzle You?” Probably you are among the 90 per cent of parents who answer this question in the affirmative. Perhaps, also, you would like to enjoy the opportunity of hearing what a panel of specialists has to say on the subject and then ask them a few questions yourself.

—The Lincoln and Lancaster County Child Guidance Center has arranged a panel of six specialists who will speak on this subject in the ballroom of the Student Union Building on the university campus at 8 o'clock on the evening of March 11. The discussion is sponsored by the Center, is free, and open to anyone who wishes to come. After the comments of each of the six specialists written questions will be accepted from the audience and answered by the experts.

—D. D. Stewart MacDonald, director of the Center, will act as moderator. Dr. Hugh Dickinson, of Omaha, will be the psychiatrist on the panel. Dr. Dickinson has the rare distinction of being both a psychiatrist and a psychoanalyst and is, incidentally, the brother of Mrs. John Ames of this city. The psychologist, from the Lincoln Veterans Administration Hospital, is Art A. Kramish. Dr. Kenneth F. Fijan represents the local pediatricians, Miss Mary Jane Young, social casework supervisor at the Center, will give the caseworker's point of view, and Mrs. Roscoe Hill will speak for the mothers. Mrs. Hill is eminently qualified as a panel member for she combines a career, interest in civic affairs (she is, among other things, a member of the Board of Education), and is presently a busy mother raising three children of university, high school, and grade school age.

—and if you're in that lucky 10 per cent bracket whose children never puzzle their parents then consider yourself among the most fortunate of mortals!

WILLIAM GETMAN
No. 61 is the title of Mr. Getman's work that is exhibited in Morrill Hall during the Nebraska Art Association's spring show—The title will need no explanation—but the medium is something else again. One understands the terms watercolor, drawing, oil, and the other usual processes in the creation of pictures. But how about “college?” Know what it is? A college is a picture created by gluing bits of paper, cloth, cigarettes and other scraps on a flat surface; parts of the design may be painted. Well, Mr. Getman's No. 61 is a college. The 38-year-old artist was born in Buffalo, N.Y., attended Yale university, Pratt Institute, and the San Miguel Allende, Mexico. He is a pupil of the west coast painters, Clifford Still and Mark Rothko, and recently returned from a number of years in Mexico. But perish the thought that Mr. Getman merely is a doer of colleges—in his one-man show in New York last autumn one found in addition to an outstanding group of the colleges, were brilliant colored oils. We are told that Picasso and Braque, the Cubists of our day, are responsible for the college which, perhaps fortunately, has been little used by American artists. Getman's work, however, is not post-Cubist in style, but rather follows the personal bent of the artist toward a more curvilinear pattern.

"Does Your Child Sometimes Puzzle You?" Probably you are among the 90 per cent of parents who answer this question in the affirmative. Perhaps, also, you would like to enjoy the opportunity of hearing what a panel of specialists has to say on the subject and then ask them a few questions yourself.

The Lincoln and Lancaster County Child Guidance Center has arranged a panel of six specialists who will speak on this subject in the ballroom of the Student Union Building on the university campus at 8 o'clock on the evening of March 11. The discussion is sponsored by the Center, is free, and open to anyone who wishes to come. After the comments of each of the six specialists written questions will be accepted from the audience and answered by the experts.

D. D. Stewart MacDonald, director of the Center, will act as moderator. Dr. Hugh Dickinson, of Omaha, will be the psychiatrist on the panel. Dr. Dickinson has the rare distinction of being both a psychiatrist and a psychoanalyst and is, incidentally, the brother of Mrs. John Ames of this city. The psychologist, from the Lincoln Veterans Administration Hospital, is Art A. Kramish. Dr. Kenneth F. Fijan represents the local pediatricians, Miss Mary Jane Young, special casework supervisor at the Center, will give the caseworker's point of view, and Mrs. Roscoe Hill will speak for the mothers. Mrs. Hill is eminently qualified as a panel member for she combines a career, interest in civic affairs (she is, among other things, a member of the Board of Education), and is presently a busy mother raising three children of university, high school, and grade school age.

—and if you're in that lucky 10 per cent bracket whose children never puzzle their parents then consider yourself among the most fortunate of mortals!

Marriage Solemnized

The marriage of Miss Marla Palmer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Palmer of Davey, and Harley L. Otto, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Otto of Ceresco, took place on Saturday afternoon, Feb. 20, at the Sinia Lutheran Church in Fremont. The 4 o'clock service was solemnized by the Rev. Earl D. Hedman in the presence of the members of the immediate families.

The maid of honor and her sister's only attendant was Miss Carol Palmer, and serving Mr. Otto as best man was Willard Rastler of Lincoln. Miss Palmer wore a spring suit of powder blue wool with pale pink accessories. Her shoulder corsage was fashioned of pink carnations.

For her wedding, the bride chose a softly tailored two-piece frock of beige wool. Her accessories were white and she carried a white prayer book ornamented with a cluster of white roses.

Following the ceremony, a wedding dinner for the members of the family was held in Fremont.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto will make their home in Lincoln.

DID A quickie on the weekend—just to see if we had missed any little morsels of news—From where we sit it looks as though we are all caught up on the Friday-to-Monday period—with the exception of weddings—so—our next best bet is to open the file on next week and see what's what and why.

Elect New PEO Officers

Mrs. R. M. Snyder was elected president of Chapter DK of PEO, Thursday afternoon, following a luncheon-meeting of the group held at the home of Mrs. Gray Jewett.

Other new officers of the chapter are Mrs. Howard M. Doty, vice president; Mrs. W. A. Fraser, recording secretary; Mrs. Lloyd W. Cleveland, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Glenn R. Johnston, treasurer; Mrs. C. A. McCoy, chaplain; and Mrs. A. J. Weaver, guard.

The members named Mrs. Snyder as chapter delegate for the state convention, and alternate is Mrs. Doty.

Chapter FF, PEO, held its annual election of officers Thursday evening following a dinner for which Mrs. Edgar Wescott was hostess at her home.

Elected president for the coming year was Mrs. G. Stanley Johnson, and the other officers named are Mrs. Donald F. Kline, vice president; Mrs. D. Bruce Engel, recording secretary; Mrs. L. L. Johnson, corresponding secretary; Mrs. D. J. Bauer, treasurer; Mrs. H. A. Stewart, chaplain; and Mrs. L. D. Clements, guard.

check and see if anything spectacular had been done during the winter months—Just the usual clean-up, paint-up work, we were told. But we know that the doors of the grill and the dining room will swing open on Saturday, April 3. The "men only" sign will be out again as far as the grill—and luncheon—is concerned. The distaff side may sip their tea in the dining room which will be open to them for luncheon—and to all club members in the evening.

HEAR THAT Lt. and Mrs. Donald Bloom and their young son, Scott, have a definite date for returning to Lincoln. They will be here on Saturday, March 27—and will be residing in an apartment in the vicinity of Pawnee and 17th. The army officer will have become a full-fledged civilian by that time, we hear. Mrs. Bloom, as probably everyone knows, is the former Mary Sue Holland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Holland.

NEXT WEEK'S calendar looks very promising—On Monday the Lincoln Symphony Association board will be holding its regular luncheon meeting at the University Club.

On Wednesday the members of the Colonial Village Bridge Club will be lunching at the University Club, with Mrs. Marvin L. Robinson and Mrs. Clarence Nelson as hostesses. The group will remain at the club for an afternoon of bridge.

WEDNESDAY brings guests to town, too, so we learned—Dr. and Mrs. L. A. Caulkins of Kansas City, Kan., will arrive Wednesday evening to remain through Thursday. Dr. Caulkins is to appear on the program at the one-day meeting of the Lincoln and Lancaster County medicos on Thursday.

BUT no business for Mrs. Caulkins on Thursday—she is to be the honored guest at a luncheon for which Mrs. Harold Morgan will be hostess when she entertains at the University Club. Twelve guests have been invited for the luncheon and an informal afternoon.

AND also on Thursday, so we hear, will be another in the series of luncheons given by Mrs. George P. Abel for chairmen and members of the various committees of the Lincoln General Hospital Women's Auxiliary.

FRIDAY will take a Lincoln fivesome to Omaha for luncheon at the Hotel Blackstone—Mrs. George DeLacy of Omaha will be the hostess, and her guest list will include her daughter, Mrs. Richard Joyce, and her nieces, Mrs. E. J. Faulkner, Mrs. Harold Osborn, Mrs. Clarke Faulkner and Miss Allison Faulkner.

'Want Fairest Plan'—Jeary

A proposed reduction in gas rates is not expected to be approved by the City Council until at least the middle of next week, according to Mayor Clark Jeary.

Jeary emphasized that the city is not "dragging its feet" and thereby costing Lincoln residents a lot of money.

"It must be remembered," said Jeary, "that in the overall picture it is an increase in rates we are considering and we want to have the fairest rate possible for both the consumers and Central."

Still Higher

Jeary meant that whatever rates are approved at this time will still be higher than those in effect prior to Dec. 27, 1953, when the Council granted Central Electric and Gas Co. its present temporary rate scale. The company has suggested this temporary rate scale now be cut about 5 per cent.

The increase Dec. 29 was about 15 per cent which would mean a 10 per cent increase under the rate proposed at this time. The 5 per cent cut comes as a result of a Federal Power Commission cut in wholesale rates as requested by Northern Natural Gas Co. of Omaha.

Jeary reported it would be impossible for the Council to have its studies completed and be in a position to act on Central's proposal by Monday. Council agreement may be reached late Monday afternoon, he said, but it would take time to have the necessary ordinance prepared.

If advisable, he said, a special Council meeting can be called in the middle of the week at which time a new rate ordinance could be given three readings. The higher rate now in effect, he pointed out, means only about a penny a day to consumers.

Other towns around Lincoln are also in for a reduction in rates, according to E. C. Dean, Central vice president in charge of operations. The company is preparing information on rates to present to these towns as soon as the Lincoln scale is fixed.

All Nebraska towns served by Central have the same rate, although slightly higher than Lincoln's because of less industry to bring the average cost of gas down.

The towns to be given rate adjustments downward are:

Beatrice, Plattsmouth, St. Joseph, Central City, Kearney, Neligh, Fremont, Hastings, Norfolk, Grand Island, Lincoln, Omaha, Papillion, West Plains, York, and others.

The commission has ruled that it does not have such authority but the Circuit Court in the District of Columbia reversed their opinion and final determination will be made by the Supreme Court. The hearing will be held in April.

Northern Natural Gas Co. buys gas from the Phillips company. Attorney General C. S. Beck pointed out that 224 Nebraska cities are now receiving gas by pipeline. He said $18,000,000 worth of natural gas is purchased in Nebraska from one company.

It is argued that there is no benefit to control pipeline companies if the price at the well-head cannot be fixed, as the original purchase price regulates what the consumer pays.

'Air Power, Education Keys To Free World's Might'

An Air Force official with the Chief of Staff office reported Friday that the strength of the free world is its defense which lies, he said, in air power and the education of the people in the free world.

McLaughlin

The officer is Lt. Col. Merlyn McLaughlin, Chief of the Liaison division of the Office of Reserve Forces in Washington, D.C.

Col. McLaughlin appeared as an Air Force representative and educational officer for the fourth annual Air Age Education clinic in the second day of a three-day state meeting. The clinic this year is sponsored by Lincoln, Westside of Omaha, Grand Island, and Beatrice.

The outcome of the cold war, according to Col. McLaughlin, will determine the condition of "our lives in the future." For this reason, he said, "our only hope for maintaining our freedom is in air power."

McLaughlin spoke Friday night before some 200 persons attending the Air Age clinic meeting at the Student Union.

Earlier in the day, representatives from schools in the sponsoring towns presented panel discussions pointing out the values of air age education in modern societies. Special emphasis was placed on the value of aviation in soil conservation, and the modern means of transportation made available by the use of airplanes.

Speakers before the clinic included Leslie A. Bryan, director of the Institute of Aviation at the University of Illinois;

Ray O. Mertes, director of the School and College Service of United Air Lines, and Harry Bard, assistant curriculum director of public schools in Baltimore, M.D.

The highlight of the afternoon meeting was a panel presented by Everett Junior High School in Lincoln on the values of the airplane in spotting and directing practices leading to good soil conservation.

2 Die In Cheyenne Shooting Scrapes

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (INS)—One airman was dead Friday and another in custody, climaxing two separate shooting scrapes in Cheyenne.

Jailed was Tech. Sgt. William R. Goosby of McIntosh, Ga., held for investigation in the shooting of his 35-year-old sister-in-law Mrs. Mary Avery of Cheyenne. Her condition is reported good.

Dead is 20-year-old Airman Robert T. Levine of Jamaica Plains, Mass., who only 40 minutes before the other fray, fatally shot 28-year-old Cheyenne Policeman Jack Jernigan. Before the wounded Jernigan died, he pumped three bullets from his service revolver into Levine.

Gas Rate Reduction Approval Not Seen Until Middle Of Week

'Want Fairest Plan'—Jeary

A proposed reduction in gas rates is not expected to be approved by the City Council until at least the middle of next week, according to Mayor Clark Jeary.

Jeary emphasized that the city is not "dragging its feet" and thereby costing Lincoln residents a lot of money.

"It must be remembered," said Jeary, "that in the overall picture it is an increase in rates we are considering and we want to have the fairest rate possible for both the consumers and Central."

Still Higher

Jeary meant that whatever rates are approved at this time will still be higher than those in effect prior to Dec. 27, 1953, when the Council granted Central Electric and Gas Co. its present temporary rate scale. The company has suggested this temporary rate scale now be cut about 5 per cent.

The increase Dec. 29 was about 15 per cent which would mean a 10 per cent increase under the rate proposed at this time. The 5 per cent cut comes as a result of a Federal Power Commission cut in wholesale rates as requested by Northern Natural Gas Co. of Omaha.

Jeary reported it would be impossible for the Council to have its studies completed and be in a position to act on Central's proposal by Monday. Council agreement may be reached late Monday afternoon, he said, but it would take time to have the necessary ordinance prepared.

If advisable, he said, a special Council meeting can be called in the middle of the week at which time a new rate ordinance could be given three readings. The higher rate now in effect, he pointed out, means only about a penny a day to consumers.

Other Towns

Other towns around Lincoln are also in for a reduction in rates, according to E. C. Dean, Central vice president in charge of operations. The company is preparing information on rates to present to these towns as soon as the Lincoln scale is fixed.

All Nebraska towns served by Central have the same rate, although slightly higher than Lincoln's because of less industry to bring the average cost of gas down.

The towns to be given rate adjustments downward are:

State Joins Court Phillips Co. Battle

U.N. WORKERS IN KOREA WALK OUT

SEOUL (Saturday) (INS) — Four hundred Korean employees of the United Nations Korean Reconstruction Agency went on strike today for a 300 per cent raise in salary.

The strikers include clerks, mess employees and motor employees. They contend they are not receiving an adequate living wage and argue the United Nations agency could easily meet a pay raise.

Prescription Of Drugs Denied To Osteopaths

An opinion by the attorney general held that osteopaths are not authorized to prescribe or dispense drugs and that violation would be invading the field of medicine and surgery.

Exceptions were listed as anesthetics, antiseptics, antidotes for poison and narcotics for temporary relief of suffering. The opinion was asked by Dr. E. A. Rogers, acting director of health.

Nebraska has joined Iowa and Minnesota in filing briefs in the U. S. Supreme Court supporting Wisconsin against the Federal Power Commission to require the commission to take jurisdiction over rates charged by Phillips Petroleum Co. for natural gas produced and sold to other pipeline companies.

The commission has ruled that it does not have such authority but the Circuit Court in the District of Columbia reversed the opinion and final determination will be made by the Supreme Court. The hearing will be held in April.

Northern Natural Gas Co. buys gas from the Phillips company. Attorney General C. S. Beck pointed out that 224 Nebraska cities are now receiving gas by pipeline. He said $18,000,000 worth of natural gas is purchased in Nebraska from one company.

It is argued that there is no benefit to control pipeline companies if the price at the well-head cannot be fixed, as the original purchase price regulates what the consumer pays.

'Air Power, Education Keys To Free World's Might'

An Air Force official with the Chief of Staff office reported Friday that the strength of the free world is its defense which lies, he said, in air power and the education of the people in the free world.

McLaughlin

The officer is Lt. Col. Merlyn McLaughlin, chief of the liaison division for the Office of Reserve Forces in Washington, D.C.

Col. McLaughlin appeared as an Air Force representative and educational officer for the fourth annual Air Age Education clinic in the second day of a three-day state meeting. The clinic this year is sponsored by Lincoln, Westside of Omaha, Grand Island, and Beatrice.

The outcome of the cold war, according to Col. McLaughlin, will determine the condition of "our lives in the future." For this reason, he said, "our only hope for maintaining our freedom is in air power."

McLaughlin spoke Friday night before some 200 persons attending the Air Age clinic meeting at the Student Union.

Earlier in the day, representatives from schools in the sponsoring towns presented panel discussions pointing up the values of air age education in modern societies. Special emphasis was placed on the value of aviation in soil conservation, and the modern means of transportation made available by the use of airplanes.

Speakers before the clinic included Leslie A. Bryan, director of the Institute of Aviation at the University of Illinois;

Ray O. Mertes, director of the School and College Service of United Air Lines, and Harry Bard, assistant curriculum director of public schools in Baltimore, Md.

The highlight of the afternoon meeting was a panel presented by Everett Junior High School in Lincoln on the values of the airplane in spotting and directing practices leading to good soil conservation.

2 Die In Cheyenne Shooting Scrapes

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (INS) — One airman was dead Friday and another in custody climaxing two separate shooting scrapes in Cheyenne.

Jailed was Tech. Sgt. William R. Goosby of McIntosh, Ga., held for investigation in the shooting of his 35-year-old sister-in-law Mrs. Mary Avery of Cheyenne. Her condition is reported good.

Dead is 20-year-old Airman Robert T. Levine of Jamaica Plains, Mass., who only 40 minutes before the other fray, fatally shot 28-year-old Cheyenne Policeman Jack Jernigan. Before the wounded Jernigan died, he pumped three bullets from his service revolver into Levine.

Report On Lincoln Sanitary Sewer Need Expected Soon

A report on the sanitary sewer needs of Lincoln may be forthcoming soon, according to Walter B. Coale, chief engineer for Sanitary District 1.

In a report to the District board of directors, Coale stated he was working with City Engineer D. L. Erickson on the last phases of the sewer study. Another two-hour session, said Coale, should complete the work.

Informal

Board member George Knight gave a preliminary report on a survey he is making of methods used by other cities in financing sewer improvements. So far, said Knight, the survey, a very informal thing, shows that all towns generally make some kind of charge for sewer service.

One prominent method of charging, he said, is a fee for sewage treatment based on the amount of water used. Knight has previously expressed favor of such a plan here.

The District has a contract now in force for treatment of sewage at the Air Base. The fee charged is applied against 80 per cent of the water used at the base.

Lincoln's current problem involves overloaded trunk lines on parts of the sanitary sewer system. This overloading has meant the deposit of some raw sewage directly into Salt Creek.

Problems complicating the solution are who will build more trunk lines, the city or district, and where the money will come from. The engineers' report is expected to be worked out by city and district governing bodies.

Investigate

The district also instructed its attorney, Max Kier, to investigate the possibility of a change in statutes to permit the district to charge for connections to a sewer line the same amount as was paid by other property owners through assessments at the time the sewer was laid.

Frequently, the District is called upon to construct a sewer through partly agricultural land in order to serve nearby residential or business property. While the agricultural land cannot be assessed for the sewer, they can connect on at a later date for a charge of $2.

District statutes state that all costs of the sewer must be assessed at the time the line is constructed. Thus, agricultural land cannot be assessed for a sewer after the line is completed and paid for, even though that land may be later developed and connected to the sewer.

Egyptian Assembly To Be Elected Next July

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Egypt's reunited military regime and ex-Premier Aly Maher announced Friday night elections for an Egyptian Constituent Assembly will be held in July. It will sit as a special Parliament to consider a new constitution.

British Launch New Sub-Hailed As World's Fastest

Craft Is Pushed By Peroxide

BARROW, England (AP)—Britain Friday launched a new submarine hailed by experts here as the world's fastest. The 225-foot craft—boosted along by hydrogen peroxide which most women know as hair bleach—was developed from captured German war secrets.

Naval experts said the secrecy-shrouded Explorer—Britain's answer to America's atomic-powered sub, the Nautilus—will be able to dart half way around the world without surfacing. An admiralty spokesman said he would "not deny" reports that the Explorer can outrun the Nautilus.

The 340-foot Nautilus, launched last Jan. 21, is expected to develop more than 26 knots (39 miles an hour) while submerged. She is designed for almost unlimited cruising range. The conventional battery and diesel powered submarine has a top speed of 16 or 17 knots when submerged. A British Admiralty announcement said the hydrogen peroxide was used as a propulsion "agent" on the Explorer. The actual fuel used is oil but details of the engine are secret.

Rear Adm. Geoffrey Barnard, deputy chief of the British naval staff, told a luncheon gathering after the launching that the Explorer's novel propulsion mechanism was developed from German secrets "left lying about after the war."

He said that when the war was over the British located the inventor, Prof. Helmut Walther, who was brought to Barrow with other German scientists to help develop the Explorer.

Barnard also disclosed that the British took over a half-completed German submarine, finished developing it and used it for experiments leading to the building of the Explorer.

Unlike the conventional submarine, the Explorer has no conning tower or "snout" tube. Naval sources said the hydrogen peroxide replaces oxygen in supplying the necessary element for fuel combustion. This permits the craft to travel great distances without the need of surfacing for air.

The Explorer was launched by Lady Reid Young, wife of the chairman of Vickers Armstrong Arms and Ammunition Co., Ltd., High ranking Navy officials attended the ceremony.

Teen-Agers On Probation For Damages

Five teen-age Lincoln boys appeared in Juvenile Court Friday in connection with the vandalism of a vacant farmhouse northeast of Lincoln on Feb. 13.

Judge Harry Ankeny placed four of the youths, 15 and 16 in ages, on probation and ordered them to make their own restitution.

The case of the fifth youth, 16, was continued for two weeks. The youth has twice been placed on probation for juvenile offenses, the last time on a deferred commitment to the Kearney Industrial School.

Two of the other youths also had been previously placed on probation by the Juvenile Court.

Summarizing his investigation of the case, Dep. Co. Atty. Elmer Scheele told the court that several of the boys had decided the farmhouse would be a good place to hold a "birthday party" for one boy and had taken up an $11 collection for beer.

He said an 18-year-old youth bought the beer with the money from two Lincoln establishments. This information has been turned over to the State Liquor Commission, he added.

He said various persons were invited to the party and "conservatively" estimated upwards of 30 teen-agers attended the party during the evening and early morning.

The house's owner, Mrs. Blanche Olmsted, has estimated the damage "in excess of $500."

Bomber And Jet Collide; Two Killed

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (INS)—Two Naval aviators were killed Friday in a mid-air crash between two planes near the Kirtland Air Force Base at Albuquerque.

An Air Force F-86 jet fighter and a Navy two engine JD-1 bomber crashed head on 10,000 feet. Both planes fell to the ground five miles southeast of Kirtland, burned and were completely demolished.

The bodies of the two Navy men were recovered. The Navy plane was enroute from Buckley Naval Air Station at Denver to El Centro, Calif., where it was based.

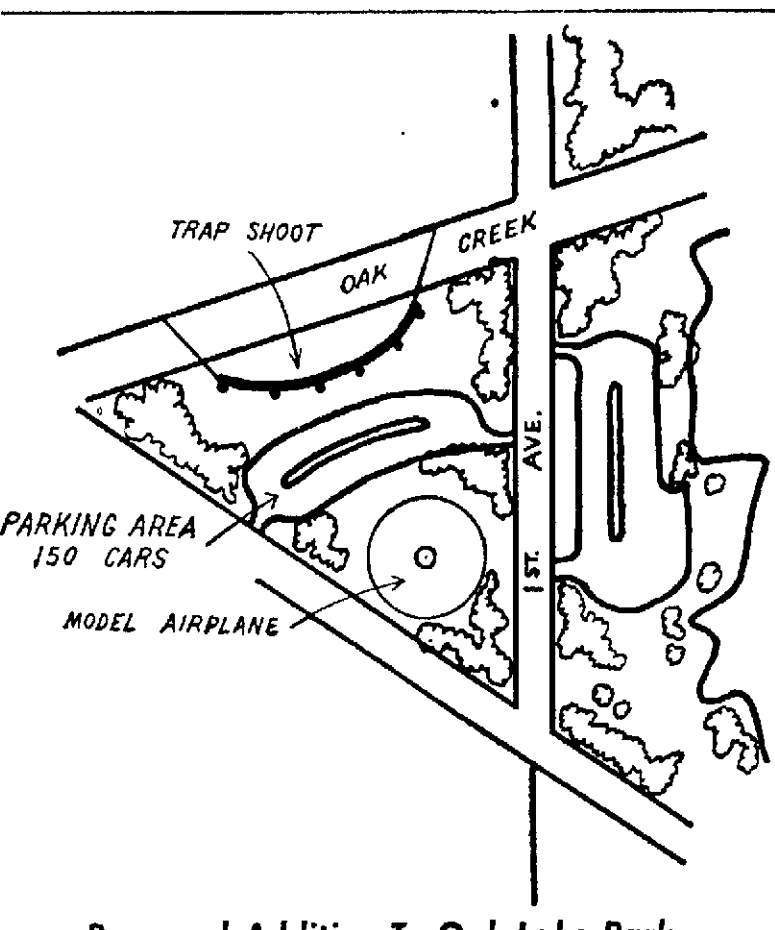

The F-86 was based at George Air Force Base, Victorville, Calif. An Air Force rescue helicopter was searching the area near the crash for an Air Force pilot who may have bailed out.

The jet plane was one of a two-plane flight that had just taken off from Kirtland enroute to Oklahoma City.

4 Killed In Crash

TUCSON, Ariz. (INS)—All four crew members were instantly killed early Friday when a B-47 Stratofortress struck a telephone pole and crashed and burned on a take-off from Davis Mountain Air Force Base.

Officials said that the big plane burst into flames immediately after striking the pole a mile from the runway. There were no Nebraskans aboard the plane.

No Spying Is Recalled By Ex-Red

WASHINGTON (AP)—An admitted former Communist testified Friday he was a member of a Red cell operating in a Nutley, N. J., electronic laboratory, but denied knowledge of any spying there.

The testimony came from Peter A. Gragis of Levittown, N. Y., appearing before the Senate Investigations Subcommittee headed by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.).

Gragis named Frank McGee as educational director of the Communist cell in the Federal Telecommunications Laboratory. McGee was brought to the witness stand, refused to say whether he is or ever has been a Communist, but also disclaimed any part in sabotage or espionage or any knowledge of it.

Gragis was instructed to come back Wednesday, when McCarthy said Gragis will identify four more Communists, including a worker in a defense plant.

The Federal Telecommunications Laboratory is a private firm, owned by International Telephone and Telegraph Corp., and is engaged largely in electronics and weapons research for the Armed Forces.

Both Gragis and McGee testified they handled secret work. McGee said classified material frequently was spread on his desk, at times when Harry Hyman visited his office.

McCarthy called Hyman an "espionage agent." McGee said Hyman had a pass to come to his office and the purpose was to discuss union business.

Gragis said that to his knowledge neither McGee nor Hyman engaged in spying, sabotage or activity harmful to national security.

McCarthy, in New York on Nov. 25 last, tagged Hyman as apparently "the most active Communist espionage agent" the subcommittee had uncovered.

Reds Cripple Vital Airlift For French

By LARRY ALLEN

MANOI, Indo-China (AP)—Viet-minh commandos raided Hanoi's big civil airport, blowing up at least 12 transport planes before they were beaten off. The attack crippled the vital airlift to the embattled French Union bastion of Dien Bien Phu.

In anticipation of fresh rebel assaults, the French hastily ordered their key defenses bolstered all along the vital Red River Delta around Hanoi.

A Union spokesman said Friday more than 200 suspects have been rounded up following the daring raid on Gialam Airport—important base for funneling men and supplies to Dien Bien Phu in northwest Indo-China.

The Reds struck before dawn, planting triggered bombs in planes along the main runways. The explosives went off with a roar that startled Hanoi across the Red River. Airport guards opened fire, killing one raider.

The French command in Saigon said "about a dozen" aircraft were damaged or partially destroyed. Most of them were C-47s belonging to private companies and requisitioned by the army.

There appeared little doubt the raid was aimed at stemming the telling flow of air traffic to Dien Bien Phu, where some 26,000 rebels have threatened for three months to attack the plains fortress in a back thrust into Indo-China. Observers believe it may yet be the scene of the biggest battle in this season's campaign, which is due to end in about six weeks with the rainy weather.

Firms Answer Niklaus Suit

Abel Construction Co. and Universal Surety Co. have answered in Lancaster District Court the supplemental petition of William Niklaus which seeks "on behalf of Lincoln taxpayers and residents" a $740,942.60 judgment against the defendant companies.

Niklaus filed his original $1 million suit last May 2 during the closing days of Lincoln's hotly-contested election campaign.

Later he amended the petition to list 24 causes of actions stemming from as many paying contracts awarded by the City to Abel Construction Company during a 12-month period before April 27, 1953.

Separate answers in behalf of Abel and its performance bond carrier, Universal, were filed Friday.

'A Smear'

Defendants' answers deny that the Niklaus suit is for the benefit of Lincoln and allege:

"The action was not instituted in good faith... but in connection with a vilification, smear and character assassination effort, plan and campaign to defeat Clark Jeary at election May 5, 1953, for office of mayor."

Both answers allege the contracts were awarded to Abel Construction Co. by Council action acting under the law and the city charter and deny generally Niklaus' allegations that the contract awards were "corrupt, fraudulent, illegal and void."

The companies allege the exhibits attached by Niklaus to his petition "incompletely and incorrectly describe" the contractual amounts received by Abel Construction Co.

Sums Differ

On 21 of the contracts which Niklaus alleges the Abel company received a total of $643,727.15; the defendants say that Abel received $632,100.81.

Abel's answer says that Jeary "is not now and never has been a director, officer or stockholder of Abel Construction Company..." and has never had an interest in any contract executed by the company.

Mayor Jeary was a member of the City Council when the paying construction contracts were awarded to Abel Construction Co.

Craft Is Pushed By Peroxide

BARROW, England (P)—Britain Friday launched a new submarine hailed by experts here as the world's fastest. The 225-foot craft—boosted along by hydrogen peroxide which most women know as hair bleach—was developed from captured German war secrets.

Naval experts said the secrecy-shrouded Explorer—Britain's answer to America's atomic-powered sub, the Nautilus—will be able to dart half way around the world without surfacing. An admiralty spokesman said he would "not deny" reports that the Explorer can outrun the Nautilus.

The 340-ton Nautilus, launched last Jan. 21, is expected to develop more than 26 knots (30 miles an hour) while submerged. She is designed for almost unlimited cruising range. The conventional battery and diesel powered submarine has a top speed of 16 or 17 knots when submerged. A British Admiralty announcement said the hydrogen peroxide was used as a propulsion "agent" on the Explorer. The actual fuel used is oil but details of the engine are secret.

Rear Adm. Geoffrey Barnard, deputy chief of the British naval staff, told a luncheon gathering after the launching that the Explorer's novel propulsion mechanism was developed from German secrets "left lying about after the war."

He said that when the war was over the British located the inventor, Prof. Helmut Walther, who was brought to Barrow with other German scientists to help develop the Explorer.

Barnard also disclosed that the British took over a half-completed German submarine, finished developing it and used it for experiments leading to the building of the Explorer.

Unlike the conventional submarine, the Explorer has no conning tower or "snort" tube. Naval sources said the hydrogen peroxide replaces oxygen in supplying the necessary element for fuel combustion. This propels the craft to travel great distances without the need of surfacing for air.

The Explorer was launched by Lady Reid Young, wife of the chairman of Vickers Armstrong Ordnance Builders. High ranking Navy officials attended the ceremony.

Teen-Agers On Probation For Damages

Five teen-age Lincoln boys appeared in Juvenile Court Friday in connection with the vandalism of a vacant farmhouse northeast of Lincoln on Feb. 13.

Judge Harry Ankeny placed four of the youths, 15 and 16 in ages, on probation and ordered them to make their pro rata share of restitution.

The case of the fifth youth, 16, was continued for two weeks. The youth has twice been placed on probation for juvenile offenses, the last time on a deferred commitment to the Kearney Industrial School.

Two of the other youths also had been previously placed on probation by the Juvenile Court. Summarizing his investigation of the case, Dep. Co. Atty. Elmer Scheele told the court that several of the boys had decided the farmhouse would be a good place to hold a "birthday party" for one boy and had taken up an $11 collection for beer.

He said an 18-year-old youth bought the beer with the money from two Lincoln establishments. This information has been turned over to the State Liquor Commission, he added.

He said various persons were invited to the party and "conservatively" estimated upwards of 30 teen-agers attended the party during the evening and early morning.

The house's owner, Mrs. Blanche Olmsted, has estimated the damage "in excess of $600."

Bomber And Jet Collide; Two Killed

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (INS)—Two Naval aviators were killed Friday in a mid-air crash between two planes near the Kirtland Air Force Base at Albuquerque.

An Air Force F-86 jet fighter and a Navy two engine JD-1 bomber crashed head-on at 10,000 feet. Both planes fell to the ground five miles southeast of Kirtland, burned and were completely demolished.

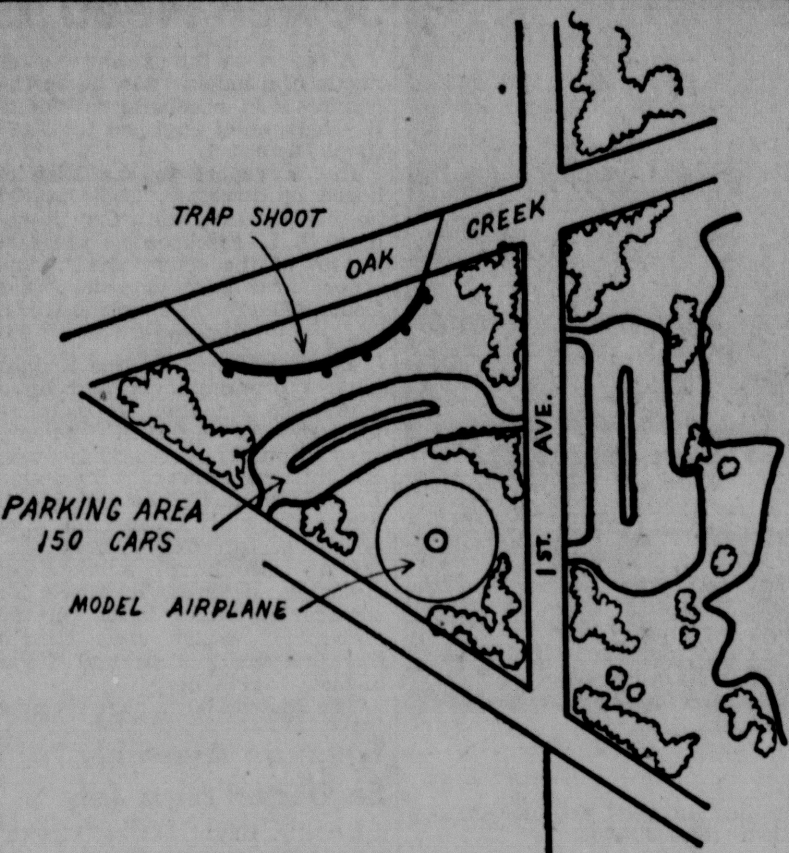

The bodies of the two Navy men were recovered. The Navy plane was enroute from Buckley Naval Air Station at Denver to El Centro, Calif., where it was based.

The F-86 was based at George Air Force Base, Victorville, Calif. An Air Force rescue helicopter was searching the area near the crash for an Air Force pilot who may have bailed out.

The jet plane was one of a two-plane flight that had just taken off from Kirtland enroute to Oklahoma City.

4 Killed In Crash
TUCSON, Ariz. (INS)—All four crew members were instantly killed early Friday when a B-47 Stratojet struck a telephone pole and crashed and burned on a take-off from Davis Mountain Air Force Base.

Officials said that the big plane burst into flames immediately after striking the pole a mile from the runway. There were no Nebraskans aboard the plane.

No Spying Is Recalled By Ex-Red

Gragis Admits Cell Connection At Nutley

WASHINGTON (P)—An admitted former Communist testified Friday he was a member of a Red cell operating in a Nutley, N. J., electronic laboratory, but denied knowledge of any spying there.

The testimony came from Peter A. Gragis of Levittown, N. Y., appearing before the Senate Investigations Subcommittee headed by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.).

Gragis named Frank McGee as educational director of the Communist cell in the Federal Telecommunications Laboratory. McGee was brought to the witness stand, refused to say whether he is or ever has been a Communist, but also disclaimed any part in sabotage or espionage or any knowledge of it.

Gragis was instructed to come back Wednesday, when McCarthy said Gragis will identify four more Communists, including a worker in a defense plant.

Private Firm
The Federal Telecommunications Laboratory is a private firm, owned by International Telephone and Telegraph Corp., and is engaged largely in electronics and weapons research for the Armed Forces.

Both Gragis and McGee testified they handled secret work. McGee said classified material frequently was spread on his desk, at times when Harry Hyman visited his office.

McCarthy called Hyman an "espionage agent." McGee said Hyman had a pass to come to his office and the purpose was to discuss union business.

Gragis said that to his knowledge neither McGee nor Hyman engaged in spying, sabotage or activity harmful to national security.

Reds Cripple Vital Airlift For French

By LARRY ALLEN

MANOI, Indo-China (P)—Viet-minh commandos raided Hanoi's big civil airport, blowing up at least 12 transport planes before they were beaten off. The attack crippled the vital airlift to the embattled French Union bastion of Dien Bien Phu.

In anticipation of fresh rebel assaults, the French hastily ordered their key defenses bolstered all along the vital Red River Delta around Hanoi.

A Union spokesman said Friday more than 200 suspects have been rounded up following the daring raid on Gialam Airport—important base for funneling men and supplies to Dien Bien Phu in northwest Indo-China.

The French also put a ring of armed guards around the airport five miles from Hanoi and denied access to anyone without special military permission.

The Reds struck before dawn, planting triggered bombs in planes along the main runways. The explosives went off with a roar that startled Hanoi across the Red River. Airport guards opened fire, killing one raider.

The French command in Saigon said "about a dozen" aircraft were damaged or partially destroyed. Most of them were C-47s belonging to private companies and requisitioned by the army.

There appeared little doubt the raid was aimed at stemming the telling flow of air traffic to Dien Bien Phu, where some 36,000 rebels have threatened for three months to attack the plains fortress in northwest Indo-China. Observers believe it may yet be the scene of the biggest battle in this season's campaign, which is due to end in about six weeks with the rainy weather.

BATCHELOR JAILED; MAY GO ON TRIAL

Collaborating With Enemy Is Charged

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (P)—The Army put Cpl. Claude Batchelor of Kermit, Tex., a prisoner of war in Korea who changed his mind about staying with the Reds, behind bars Friday.

Fourth Army Headquarters here announced that charges of collaborating with the enemy had been preferred against the corporal and a pre-trial investigation will begin soon to determine whether the evidence justifies trial by court-martial.

The other American POW who changed his mind about staying with the Communists also had been charged with collaborating with the enemy and is awaiting trial by a court-martial. He is Cpl. Edward S. Dickenson, 23, of Cracker's Neck, Va., who came out of a Korean stockade several weeks before Batchelor walked out of a neutral zone campment in Korea last Jan. 1.

Both of the soldiers are 23 and both are from small towns.

Confined to Stockade
Batchelor got back to Kermit, in west Texas, last Sunday. He came to Brooke Army Hospital here Thursday for a medical checkup.

Friday he was confined to the stockade at Fort Sam Houston here, headquarters of the 4th Army. He refused to make any statement.

Army authorities quoted him: "I did not harm my fellow prisoners. I never gave information about them."

They said the soldier showed little reaction when informed the charges were brought against him.

He accepted an offer to have Lt. Col. Kerlin J. Bragdon, a fellow Texan, serve as his counsel and he and the colonel went into conference.

His mother in Kermit, Mrs. O. L. Batchelor, said she wanted him "to face whatever he has to face." His father is an oil field worker. They have eight children. Claude left high school to join the Army on Nov. 2, 1950.

He left a Japanese wife in Tokyo and said he wanted to bring her over soon.

Cops Arrest 'Lunch Hour' Bank Bandit

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (P)—An alleged getaway driver's carelessness with big money during a binge led Friday to the arrest of Indiana's elusive "lunch hour" bank bandit.

Police Chief Alfred Figel said Bernard E. La Clair, 31-year-old former Fort Wayne garage operator, admitted four holdups in Indiana and two in the East with loot totaling $138,000. Figel said the total of his holdups probably would exceed $200,000.

Figel said La Clair admitted these holdups, all in the last nine months: June 30, Evansville, Ind. $24,000; July, New Britain, Conn. $24,000; June 6, Hamlet, Ind. $7,500; July 25, Bourbon, Ind. $9,500; Dec. 8, Evansville, Ind. $11,000; January, Springfield, Mass. State Bank, $62,000.

Used Shotgun
Figel said George Miller, 28, of Fort Wayne, arrested Thursday night and held on loitering and investigation charges under $10,000 bond, was believed to have been La Clair's driver.

Miller was arrested for intoxication at suburban Waynedale. Chief Figel said he was flashing bills of large denominations. The police chief said $900 in new bills was found stuffed in a child's toy panda at Miller's home.

La Clair was quoted as saying he used a 12-gauge shotgun in all the holdups, made all employees and patrons in the bank lie on the floor and ordered an official to get the money in each case.

He got his nickname from a habit of showing up shortly after noon, when several bank employees were out to lunch and customers were usually few.

The bill now goes to the White House. Passage was by voice vote.

The bill increases the borrowing authority of CCC from $6,750,000,000 to $8 1/2 billion dollars to provide funds considered necessary to support farm prices at present mandatory levels.

Firms Answer Niklaus Suit

Abel Construction Co. and Universal Surety Co. have answered in Lancaster District Court the supplemental petition of William Niklaus which seeks "on behalf of Lincoln taxpayers and residents" a $740,942.60 judgment against the defendant companies.

Niklaus filed his original $1 million suit last May 2 during the closing days of Lincoln's hotly-contested election campaign.

Later he amended the petition to list 24 causes of actions stemming from as many paying contracts awarded by the City to Abel Construction Company during a 12-month period before April 27, 1953.

Separate answers in behalf of Abel and its performance bond carrier, Universal, were filed Friday.

'A Smeat'

Defendants' answers deny that the Niklaus suit is for the benefit of Lincoln and allege: "The action was not instituted in good faith... but in connection with a vilification, smear and character assassination effort, plan and campaign to defeat Clark Jeary at election May 5, 1953, for office of mayor."

Both answers allege the contracts were awarded to Abel Construction Co. by Council action acting under the law and the city charter and deny generally Niklaus' allegations that the contract awards were "corrupt, fraudulent, illegal and void."

Sums Differ

On 21 of the contracts which Niklaus alleges the Abel company received a total of $643,727.15; the defendants say that Abel received $632,100.81.

Abel's answer says that Jeary "is not now and never has been a director, officer or stockholder of Abel Construction Company... and has never had an interest in any contract executed by the company."

Mayor Jeary was a member of the City Council when the paving construction contracts were awarded to Abel Construction Co.

Elections Foreseen

Wayne Hester Stars In 62-51 Falls City Defeat

Breaking a 47-all tie with 4:39 minutes to play, Northeast went off to whip Falls City, 62-51, at Wesleyan Friday night and grab a spot in the state basketball tourney here next week.

Though the Rockets meet Lincoln for the district title. Game time is 7:30 p.m.

Northeast was behind most of the game, but had what it took in the stretch to beat the Tigers, re-venge a regular season loss and

Hastings Is Victor Over Fremont Five

FREMONT (AP)—Cal Johnson's 22 points led Hastings to a 54-44 decision over Fremont in the finals of the Class A high school regional tournament here Friday night.

Hastings shook off the stubborn Fremont club after being held at 14-14 late in the first period, then fashioned a comfortable lead with nine more points before the second quarter began to lead 23-15, and went to rest on top, 35-25.

Riding a 50-35 advantage at the start of the fourth period, Hastings turned to a defensive game to hold off the Fremont challenge. Hastings tallied only four points in the last quarter, all on free throws.

Dwayne Murphy was the main Fremont threat with 12 points, nine of them in the first quarter.

Both teams earned berths in next week's state tournament by winning semifinals games Thursday night.

Benson Edges Boys Town

OMAHA (AP)—Frank Huber was the hero for the second night in a row as Omaha Benson won the Class A regional high school basketball tournament with a 37-36 decision over Boys Town Friday night.

Huber dunked a pair of free throws in the dying moments to give the Bunnies the title.

Thursday night, he cashed two charity tosses to defeat Omaha North in a double-overtime semifinal battle.

Benson had a 35-34 lead when Huber's free throws went through with 49 seconds to play. They proved to be the difference as Boys Town's Jim Cook canned one from the side a few seconds later.

Huber, Wayne Muenster and Alex Grant provided Benson with a 9-2 first quarter margin over the defending state champions.

Benson was on top, 20-12, at halftime, and still held the advantage, 29-22, going into the fourth quarter. But a pressing Cowboy defense rattled the Bunnies during the last eight minutes and allowed Boys Town to close the gap.

Huber and Grant led Benson with 9 points each. Cook counted 12 for Boys Town.

Fairbury JC Wins Regional Tourney

FAIRBURY (AP)—Fairbury Junior College defeated Grand View of Des Moines, 59-47, Friday night to take the Region 11 Junior College basketball tournament.

This qualifies Fairbury for the finals to be played later this month. In the consolation game Graceland of Des Moines defeated Norfolk, 63-51.

Fairbury didn't take command until the final five minutes of the game and then went into a stall to protect its slender margin.

Grand View took over at the start, leading 27-25 at the half. Late in the third period Fairbury caught up and went ahead but the lead changed hands several times before Fred Fisher's 47-45 Fisher led Fairbury with 22 points and Bruce Nelson and Bill Moody had 12 each for Grand View.

In the consolation game Russell Hampton led Graceland with 10 points and Gail Musselman had 14 to lead Norfolk.

Carter Dethroned in 15-Round Decision

Paddy DeMarco Wins Lightweight Title

By MURRAY ROSE
NEW YORK (AP)—Bustling Paddy DeMarco, who appeared headed for boxing's scrap heap only five months ago, put on the greatest fight of his career Friday night to wrest the lightweight championship from 30-year-old Jimmy Carter in a sensational upset in Madison Square Garden.

A 4-1 underdog, the 26-year-old DeMarco, who had never gone more than 10 rounds in his nine year career, won the 15-rounder with ease. The decision was unanimous and was met with a roar of approval by the slim crowd of 5,730 which paid $2.72.

The broad-shouldered, how-legged Brooklyn brawler outstuffed, outfought and outmaneuvered the hard-hitting New York Negro. Paddy made Carter fight the way

First Week Successful, Says Coach Glassford

Bill Glassford Friday thought the first week of football practice at the University of Nebraska "had been successful."

The Cornhusker head coach described the workouts as "very satisfactory and very spirited."

Practice for the week ended Friday but the squad will work next Saturday so that state high school basketball tournament fans may see it.

The Huskers worked outdoors on fundamentals Friday for the second straight day. Bad weather caused the first three days of drills to be staged indoors.

The squad is divided into five groups, and the top group is split into two teams.

The top teams carried Andy Locher and Don Hewitt at ends, Pev Evans and Bill Holloran at Tackles, Tom Kripal and Bob Wagner at guards, Bob Obelin at center, Rex Fischer at quarterback, Jon McWilliams and Willie Greenlaw at halfbacks and Bob Smith at fullback.

Another switch saw Pev Evans, Rapid City, S. D., senior, replacing Don Glantz on the No. 1 unit.

Sophomores on the second team included Guard Jim Mur-

All-Missouri Valley Cage Squad Listed

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Classy Cleo Littleton, the Wichita forward who has taken up permanent residence on the first team, Center Bob Mattick of Oklahoma A&M and Forward Dick Boushka of St. Louis University were named unanimously to the 1954 Associated Press Missouri Valley Conference basketball all-star team.

It's the third straight first team appearance for Littleton, the 6-foot-3½ Negro who became the first freshman to be so honored in the Valley two seasons ago. Only a junior, he'll have a chance to make it four-for-four next season.

Sportswriters and sportscasters in the sprawling Valley area are taking free bus rides to Detroit to attend the first team berths to Tulsa Guard Dick Nunneley and Detroit Forward Gay Sparrow. Both missed unanimous selection by just one vote.

Boushka, whose absence because of illness collapsed St. Louis title hopes, and Sparrow, a member of a last place club that was the worst in Detroit history, also are only juniors and will be back next season.

Nunneley, a senior like Mattick, bowed out of the Valley by regaining a first team berth he held two years ago as a sophomore. He was a second team choice with Boushka a year ago.

Only Houston of the Valley members failed to place a representative on the first team, but the Cougars landed two—Center Gary Shivers and Guard Jack Mosher—on the second team. Both are seniors and line up with juniors Bob Patterson, Tulsa forward, and Jerry Koch, St. Louis forward, and senior Paul Scheer, Wichita guard, on the second five.

The writers and broadcasters polled by the AP put the emphasis on offense in marking their first team ballots. All five players have been in on the individual scoring race all season.

The top three—Littleton, Mattick and Boushka—are so close, in fact, the champion won't be named until St. Louis and Oklahoma A&M hook up in the final Valley game of the season Saturday night. That game also will decide the team champion with the Aggies assured of nothing less than a tie with Wichita.

Littleton, who with Mattick gained honorable mention on the AP all-America this season, broke the 10-game scoring record this season, finishing with 209 points. The old mark was set last season by Boushka, who as a sophomore scored 205 points.

Alpha Brazle of the St. Louis Cardinals is the oldest active player in the National League. He will be 49 next October.

Both teams played lackadaisical ball. It was the last game of the season for Iowa State, which has won only six of 15 games and is at the bottom of the Big Seven ladder with a 2-10 conference mark.

The score was tied 14-14 at the end of the first quarter. The lead saw-sawed through the second period until Bob Reiter's field goal gave Missouri the lead for keeps, 33-30, just before the gun. Reiter was the scoring leader with 23 points on 11 field goals and one free throw. Center Chuck Duncan netted 15 for Iowa State.

Tecumseh Is Winner Over Holy Name

By RON GIBSON
Star Sports Staff Member
AUBURN—Tecumseh used an effective fast break offense and a tight defense here Friday night to defeat Omaha Holy Name, 51-45, and win a spot in the state Class B basketball tournament.

The district's final game was close all the way and went down to the final minute before it was decided. Holy Name shooters were cold in the first half, but in the last quarter began picking up, and with four minutes left in the game, tied the score, 36-36.

The tying basket was a 20-foot set shot by Carl Ciani.

Tecumseh's John Wherry, who wound up high scorer for the winners, with 16 points, then took charge and sank a field goal that was followed by a drive-in shot by Riley Ruby and Tecumseh had a four-point margin.

John Putnam closed the gap to 40-38 with a lay-up, but again Ruby scored, a basket and a free throw and it looked like Tecumseh might be out of trouble.

But Holy Name fought back to within one point again as Harry Vollmer and Dick Hartman hit. After both teams scored another basket, Tecumseh went into a stall until Steve Finn sewed it up with two free throws. The Indians added two more baskets for insurance before the gun sounded. Steve Finn sparked in floor play for the winners. Hartman led the Holy Name scoring with 14.

BEATRICE — Sparked by Don Hinzmann's 27 points, Western smashed Reynolds 64-46 here Friday night in the District Class D finals.

Western will play in the state tournament in Lincoln next week.

Trailing 33-24 at halftime, Reynolds came within three points of Western in the third quarter but couldn't catch the Western crew.

Defending Champ Cozad Is Defeated

HOLDREGE (AP)—Minden shot to a 36-18 halftime lead then coasted to a 60-44 victory over defending state champion Cozad in the finals of the Class B regional basketball tournament here Friday night.

Minden, usually a top contender for the Class B crown but absent from the state meet last year, eliminated a young Cozad team whose starters consisted of three sophomores and two juniors.

Keith Ozzane of Cozad and Kendall Peterson of Minden each potted 17 points for individual honors.

Ozzane, a sophomore, wound up with 69 points in the three tourney games.

Northeast, Teachers Win State Tourney Spots

Wayne Hester Stars In 62-51 Falls City Defeat

Breaking a 47-all tie with 4:39 minutes to play, Northeast went off to whip Falls City, 62-51, at Wesleyan Friday night and grab a spot in the state basketball tourney here next week.

Tonight the Rockets meet Lincoln for the district title. Game time is 7:30 p.m.

Northeast was behind most of the game, but what it took in the stretch to beat the Tigers, reversing a regular season loss and

Hastings Is Victor Over Fremont Five

FREMONT (P)—Cal Johnson's 22 points led Hastings to a 54-44 decision over Fremont in the finals of the Class A high school regional tournament here Friday night.

Hastings shook off the stubborn Fremont clutch after being held at 14-14 late in the first period, then fashioned a comfortable lead with nine more points before the second quarter began to lead 23-15, and went to rest on top, 35-25.

Riding a 50-35 advantage at the start of the fourth period, Hastings turned to a defensive game to hold off the Fremont challenge. Hastings tallied only four points in the last quarter, all on free throws.

Dwayne Murphy was the main Fremont threat with 12 points, nine of them in the first quarter. Both teams earned berths in next week's state tournament by winning semifinals games Thursday night.

Benson Edges Boys Town

OMAHA (P)—Frank Huber was the hero for the second night in a row as Omaha Benson won the Class A regional high school basketball tournament with a 37-36 decision over Boys Town Friday night.

Huber dunked a pair of free throws in the dying moments to give the Bunnies the title.

Thursday night, he cashed two charity tosses to defeat Omaha North in a double-overtime semifinal battle.

Benson had a 35-34 lead when Huber's free throws went through with 49 seconds to play. They proved to be the difference as Boys Town's Jim Cook canned one from the side a few seconds later.

Huber, Wayne Muenster and Alex Grant provided Benson with a 9-2 first quarter margin over the defending state champions.

Benson was on top, 20-12, at halftime, and still held the advantage, 29-22, going into the fourth quarter. But a pressing Cowboy defense rattled the Bunnies during the last eight minutes and allowed Boys Town to close the gap.

Huber and Grant led Benson with 9 points each. Cook counted 12 for Boys Town.

Fairbury JC Wins Regional Tourney

FAIRBURY (P)—Fairbury Junior College defeated Grand View of Des Moines, 59-47, Friday night to take the Reg. 11 Junior College basketball tournament.

This qualifies Fairbury for the finals to be played later this month. In the consolation game Graceland of Des Moines defeated Norfolk, 63-51.

Fairbury didn't take command until the final five minutes of the game and then went into a stall to protect its slender margin.

Grand View took over at the start, leading 27-25 at the half. Late in the third period Fairbury caught up and went ahead but the lead changed hands several times before Fred Fisher's 47-45 Fisher led Fairbury with 22 points and Bruce Nelson and Bill Moody had 12 each for Grand View.

In the consolation game Russell Hampton led Graceland with 10 points and Gail Musselman had 14 to lead Norfolk.

Concordia Loses To Springfield

LINCOLN STAR SPECIAL—SEWARD—Concordia College lost an overtime decision to Springfield, Ill., 62-61, in the feature game of the Concordia tourney here Friday night.

In the other game, River Forest, Ill., defeated St. Louis Seminary, 78-66.

SCOTTSBLUFF (P)—Lauren Schwisow, football coach at Scottsbluff High School for the past four years, has requested that his name not be considered for a contract next year.

Sophomore Wayne Hester sent Northeast ahead with a field goal, 49-47, and added a free toss moments later.

From then on the Rockets were in control although Falls City kept the pressure on to the last minute.

Hester was the star of the game. He poured through 18 points, high for the winners, and registered a sparkling floor game. Nels Kjeldsen paced Falls City with 25 points. He hit for 15 in the first half and was slowed to 10 before fouling out with 1:05 left to play. Kjeldsen got only one fielder in the second half, chiefly due to a sagging Rocket defense triggered by Sub Bob Baker.

Baker fouled out in the dying seconds of the third period, but not before he had shown how to put the clamps on Kjeldsen. His play helped spark the Northeast rally in the third canto and the senior's spirit seemed to carry over after he departed.

Falls City dominated the first half, leading 17-9 at the end of the initial quarter and 32-23 at the half.

Kjeldsen's wide range of scoring shots, combined with some deadeye long shots by sophomore Jerry Collier and Les Groff, overhauled Northeast. The Rockets passed poorly and Falls City capitalized on each Rocket error to run up their big half-time bulge. Closest Northeast came after an early 2-all tie was 10-8 with 2:29 to play in the first quarter.

Things changed at the start of the third quarter. Bill Fry, Hester and Paul Leacock picked up the slack and with 2:06 left it was tied, 38-38. Collier broke the deadlock with a nifty long shot and Kjeldsen added a free toss before Fry hit, making it 42-40. Kjeldsen sent home another charity toss before the period ended.

Hester made it 43-42 with only 59 seconds in the final period. Fry hit a basket to put Northeast ahead, 44-43, on a disputed drive-in shot on which he fouled. Don Turek then took over and added a fielder and free toss and Northeast was never headed.

Falls City closed it to 47-47 with 4:21 to play, but Hester's field goal and free throw decided the issue with 6:15 to go.

Never quitting, Falls City closed to 50-49 on a long shot by Groff with 3:30 to play, but Fry, Turek, Hester and Leacock hit a succession of free throws to run the count to 60-49 with 45 seconds to play.

Never giving up, Falls City closed to 50-49 on a long shot by Groff with 3:30 to play, but Fry, Turek, Hester and Leacock hit a succession of free throws to run the count to 60-49 with 45 seconds to play.

All-Missouri Valley Cage Squad Listed

ST. LOUIS (P)—Classy Cleo Littleton, the Wichita forward who has taken up permanent residence on the first team, Center Bob Mattick of Oklahoma A&M and Forward Dick Boushka of St. Louis University were named unanimously to the 1954 Associated Press Missouri Valley Conference basketball all-star team.

It's the third straight first team appearance for Littleton, the 6-foot-3 1/2 Negro, who became the first freshman to be so honored in the Valley two seasons ago. Only a junior, he'll have a chance to make it four-for-four next season.

Sportswriters and sportscasters in the sprawling Valley area—extending from Houston to Detroit—also gave first team berths to Tulsa Guard Dick Nunneley and Detroit Forward Guy Sparrow. Both missed unanimous selection by just one vote.

Boushka, whose absence because of illness collapsed St. Louis title hopes, and Sparrow, a member of a last place club that was the worst in Detroit history, also are only juniors and will be back next season.

Nunneley, a senior like Mattick, bowed out of the Valley by regaining a first team berth he held two years ago as a sophomore. He was a second team choice with Boushka a year ago.

Only Houston of the Valley members failed to place a representative on the first team, but the Cougars landed two—Center Gary Shivers and Guard Jack Mosher—on the second team.

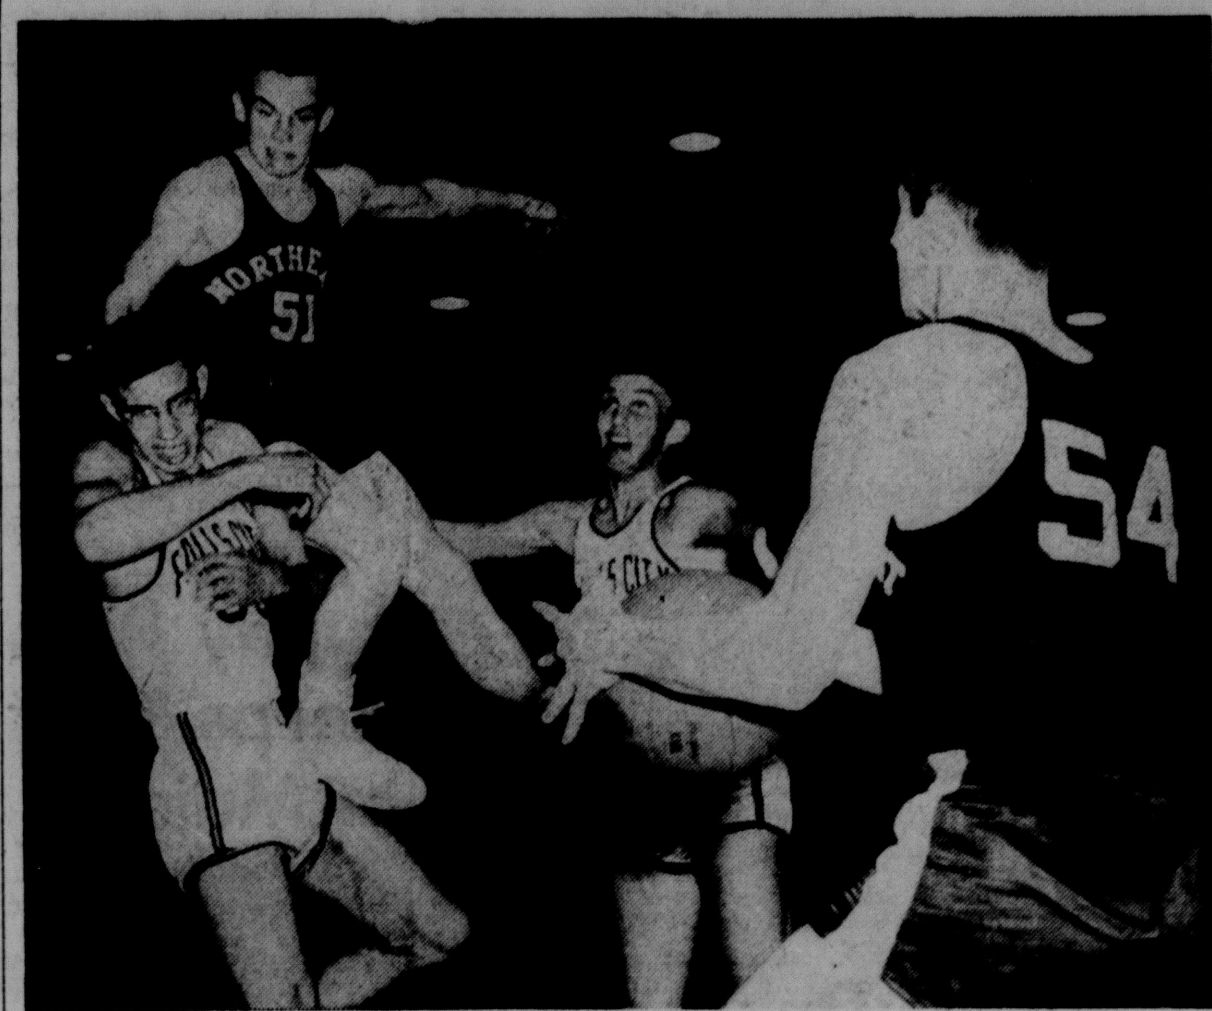

Both are seniors and line up with juniors Bob Patterson, Tulsa forward, and Jerry Koch, St. Louis forward, and senior Paul Scheer, Wichita guard, on the second five.

The writers and broadcasters polled by the AP put the emphasis on offense in marking their first team ballots. All five players have been in on the individual scoring race all season.

The top three—Littleton, Mattick and Boushka—are so close, in fact, the champion won't be named until St. Louis and Oklahoma A&M hook up in the final Valley game of the season Saturday night. That game also will decide the team champion with the Aggies assured of nothing less than a tie with Wichita.

Littleton, who with Mattick gained honors on the team in the AP all-America this season, broke the 10-game scoring record this season, finishing with 209 points. The old mark was set last season by Boushka, who as a sophomore scored 205 points.

Alpha Brazier of the St. Louis Cardinals is the oldest active player in the National League. He will be 40 next October.

Carter Dethroned in 15-Round Decision

Paddy DeMarco Wins Lightweight Title

By MURRAY ROSE
NEW YORK (P)—Bustling Paddy DeMarco, who appeared headed for boxing's scrap heap only five months ago, put on the greatest fight of his career Friday night to wrest the lightweight championship from 30-year-old Jimmy Carter in a sensational upset in Madison Square Garden.

A 4-1 underdog, the 26-year-old DeMarco, who had never gone more than 10 rounds in his nine year career, won the 15-rounder with ease. The decision was unanimous and was met with a roar of approval by the slim crowd of 5,730 which paid $23,727.

The broad-shouldered, how-legged Brooklyn brawler outstuffed, outfought and outmaneuvered the hard-hitting New York Negro. Paddy made Carter fight the way he wanted to as he piled up points with a flicking left jab, flashing hooks and daring flurries.

The crowd, quiet through the first few rounds started to whoop it up when the bulling Brooklynite opened a cut over Jimmy's left eye with a smashing right. From the sixth on it was almost all DeMarco.

Carter, winner of his last three title defenses by knock outs, pressed all the way trying for a kayo but he never dropped Paddy or came close to it.

The votes, all for DeMarco, were: Referee Ruby Goldstein, 7-5-3; Judge Arthur Aidaia, 9-5-1; and Judge Harold Barnes, 9-6. The Associated Press had it for DeMarco, 10-4-1. Each weighed 135.

Paddy said before the fight that he hoped Carter "would try for a knockout. Then he's mine."

That's exactly what happened. Carter stalked at the start and didn't appear to be disturbed when he couldn't get in his haymaker.

He didn't even throw a really hard right until the third. DeMarco, backing, sidestepping and then whirling in for quick flurries always managed to tie up Carter before the champion could unleash his power punches.

Paddy hustled off to a lead in the first two rounds with his jabs, hooks and body punching at close range. Carter scored with his first hard right to the jaw in the third but Paddy didn't even blink. Jimmy, working more to the body appeared to have earned the edge in the fourth and fifth too. But in the sixth, Paddy turned the tide for good.

He smashed open the cut over Carter's left eye and when he saw the blood flowing, he plowed right after the poker-faced Negro, belting away with both hands to the body.

From then on DeMarco piled up the points. He had Jimmy missing all over the ring, much to the delight of the crowd.

Tutors Hal Rowe Sparkles In 47-42 Victory Over Hard-Pressing Wahoo

WAHOO — The fast traveling Lincoln Teachers earned a place in the state basketball tournament at Lincoln next week by racking up Wahoo 47-42 here Friday night in the District Class B finals.

Moving ahead 10-9 with 3:29 gone in the first quarter, Teachers never trailed during the contest but were pressed several times during the three remaining quarters by the spirited Wahoo team.

It was the radar basket shooting of Hal Rowe, lanky Jim Thom, and Roger Kaltenberger that gave Teachers a comfortable 23-18 halftime margin.

Teachers continued to add pressure to the Wahoo attack and lead 28-20 and 31-23 early in the third period.

Trailing by 10 important points, Wahoo's Bill Edwards, and Lloyd Lanik found the basket range and with Gary Hoffman's long shot swishing the net as the third quarter ended Wahoo trailed the surprised Teachers only 35-33.

Wahoo's rejoicing was rudely interrupted as Teacher's Bob Seamark hit three fast baskets in the fourth period to move the Teachers back in front 44-34 with 3:35 remaining in the championship contest.

Time ran out on the hustling Wahoo crew who pulled within five points of Teachers late in the fourth period as the Teachers coasted on to victory and the State Tournament.

Rowe, smooth working Teacher guard, paced the winners with 13 points while tall Thom hit the net for 11. Edwards was the bright spark in the Wahoo offensive attack with 14 points. Edwards received scoring help from Lanik who finished with 11.

Frick, Busch Are Summoned

Major League Baseball Dealt Blow

WASHINGTON (AP)—Major league baseball was dealt one of its most serious blows Friday by the government in a radio broadcast ruling, and two officials of the national pastime were summoned to a hearing on a bill designed to force beer-maker August A. Busch to sell the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Federal Communications Commission denied a petition of the New York Yankees, Brooklyn Dodgers and the Cardinals who sought to compel the Trinity Broadcasting Corp. of Texas to stop alleged unauthorized broadcasts of games.

The ball clubs claimed the radio company "appropriated and pirated" information from authorized game broadcasts then re-created them for rebroadcasting over stations in Dallas, El Paso and Houston.

A decision on whether the rebroadcasts appropriated any property rights as the complaint alleged was sidestepped. In its decision, the FCC declared the re-broadcast rules do not attempt to define property interests in broadcast material. Trinity claimed that once the news was broadcast, it was not copyrightable and could be picked up by other stations.

Busch and Baseball Commissioner Frick were summoned to a Senate Judiciary subcommittee hearing next Thursday. A bill was introduced recently by Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo.) which would place under the anti-trust laws a baseball club operated by any official of a beer or liquor business.

Johnson said in a Senate speech his bill was aimed at Busch, head of the Cardinals and president of Anheuser-Busch, Inc. The senator was angry because the Cardinals had planned to broadcast their games into cities where they have farm clubs. The plan later was dropped.

A recent Supreme Court decision held that baseball is not a business in the meaning of the anti-trust laws.

Decision Hailed By Broadcasting Officer

DALLAS (AP)—Gordon McLendon, vice-president of Trinity Broadcasting Corporation and the man who announces its big league baseball games, Friday hailed the decision of the Federal Communications Commission which turned down an attempt by major league clubs to halt his broadcasts, as the "most important victory for the radio industry since the FCC gave it the right to editorialize."

McLendon has men stationed in the major league cities who hear radio broadcasts on the big league games and the reports are wired to him. He then recreates the games on the radio.

McLendon said he turned to the plan of picking up the broadcasts from the other radio stations when the major league clubs denied him a contract to broadcast their baseball games.

"I am ready to start broadcasting major league games and will carry one each afternoon and one each night during the season," he said. With tongue in cheek, he added: "There will be no charge to baseball for this advertising."

"This is a historic victory," McLendon said of the FCC ruling, "for news reporting rights of radio. It wins for the radio the right to disseminate news on the same basis as the newspaper without discriminatory charges."

Golf Rounds Won By Lesser, Ziske

ORMOND BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Pat Lesser and Joyce Ziske, comparative newcomers to the top ranks of women's amateur golf, scored convincing victories Friday and entered the finals of the South Atlantic Tournament.

Miss Lesser, 20-year-old Seattle University sociology junior, won the last seven holes in succession in defeating Mrs. Maurice Glick of Baltimore 7 and 5.

Miss Ziske, 19-year-old pride of Watford, Wis., ousted Mary Ann Downey, also of Baltimore, 3 and 1 in the other semifinal match.

Jat and Joyce, roommates here but who have never met in match play, play the 36-hole final today over the 6,133 yard men's par 71 Ellinor Village Country Club course.

The championship match shaped up as a battle between a long driver—Miss Ziske—and a fine pitch-and-putt player, Miss Lesser.

Nine Seek Solon Right Field Post

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—The Washington Senators open their exhibition schedule weighed down with nine applicants for the vacancy in right field.

Clyde Vollmer will be stationed in the position as the Senators take on Philadelphia Athletics, but the most talked-up candidate for the berth hasn't arrived here yet.

Manager Bucky Harris has heard glowing reports about Angel Scull, a 23-year-old Cuban Negro, and some of the big praise has come from Scull's rivals. Frank Camp arrived to open his bid, for example, and immediately cut his chances by lauding Scull's skills in all departments.

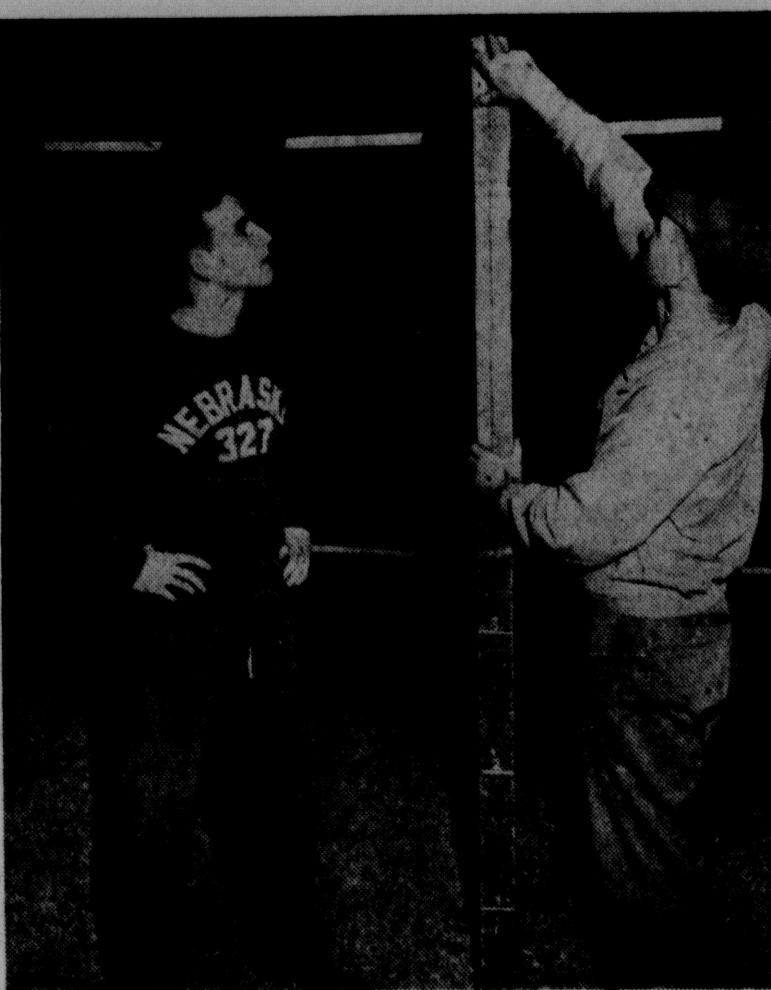

Meanwhile, the Mickey Vernon holdout intrigue continues. Talk about trading the first baseman to Boston has dropped off, however, and Calvin Griffith, Senator vice president, and Vernon met Friday. Griffith said before the session that he'd make a new management offer.

Roy Sievers will hold down first today. Rookies Larry Clark, Bob Ross and Hank Beifuss will pitch.

Phillies Impress

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies high command is impressed with the early training performance of second baseman Ben Tomkins and first baseman Johnny Moskusz.

Moskus drove in five runs with a pair of home runs. Manager Steve O'Neill is impressed with the power Moskusz generates from his wrist action. Moskusz is up from the Class B Salt Lake City team. Tomkins has played well in the field and looked good at the plate.

Creighton, Bevo Game Rescheduled

OMAHA (AP)—The Creighton University-Rio Grande basketball game, postponed earlier this month when Rio Grande's star Bevo Francis was hurt, will be played later in March, J. V. (Duce) Belford, Creighton athletic director, announced Friday.

Belford said the site for the game and the date would be determined later. Details will be announced at that time, he added.

The game had been moved from the Creighton gymnasium to the larger University of Omaha Fieldhouse when thousands sought tickets. It was announced, however, that the University of Omaha facilities would not be available late in the month.

Exhibition Open In Earnest

Major Leagues To Go Into Action Today

NEW YORK (AP)—Muscles that have been toned the past two weeks in exercises and "athletics" will be flexed in earnest today with the opening of the major league spring exhibition baseball games.

All 16 clubs spring into action, including the Baltimore Orioles who will be returning to the big top for the first time in half a century. The St. Louis Browns were moved to Baltimore after the 1953 season and the American League's newest member quickly adopted the nickname of the old-time Orioles, famous since the days of John J. McGraw.

Today's schedule is as follows: Pittsburgh (NL) vs. Boston (AL) at Sarasota, Fla. Baltimore (AL) vs. Chicago (NL) at Mesa, Ariz.

Funny Pitch Keeps Mike In Majors

Sandlock To Handle Phil Knuckleballers

By JACK HAND CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP)—It's a wonder the Phillies' other catchers didn't meet Mike Sandlock at the train with a brass band. No longer will they have to worry about Johnny Lindell's darting knuckleballs.

Philadelphia bought the 37-year-old Sandlock from Pittsburgh during the winter for the specific job of catching Lindell. It was a natural. The only reason Mike came back to the majors last year was to catch Lindell at Pittsburgh.

There are more pleasant ways of making a living in baseball than trying to net butterfly pitches with a catcher's mitt. But Sandlock is philosophical about it. He realizes he probably wouldn't be drawing a big league pay check if he wasn't a wizard at this particular job.

"It's no fun catching those knucklers," he said. "You just hope for the best. Lindell has the best I've ever seen because it comes up fast. He throws it about 80 per cent of the time. John doesn't know where it's going half the time. Neither do I. That's why I led the league with 15 passed balls last season."

How does a guy get to be a knuckleball catcher?

"The best way is to stay relaxed. Wait until the ball comes to you. If you go out to meet it, you're a goner. The worst kind of catch is a pitch up around your eyes. The glove cuts off your vision. That is the kind of pitch that often gets away."

Sandlock wasn't always a knuckleball expert. In fact, he broke in as a shortstop. Branch Rickey changed him over to a catcher at Brooklyn in 1945.

Kirby Higbe, a Dodger of that vintage, was the first to throw a knuckler to him.

After Mike drifted to Montreal and Hollywood in 1949, he became known as an expert on knucklers. Willard Ramsdell, another ex-Dodger, gave him a workout. Then came Lindell, the former Yankee outfielder.

Sandlock will get plenty of work with the Phillies because Murry Dickson and Bob Miller also throw the flutterball. Steve Ridzik and Jim Konstanty have a "palm ball" that also does funny tricks.

Cincinnati (NL) vs. Chicago (AL) at Tampa, Fla. New York (NL) vs. Cleveland (AL) at Tucson, Ariz. Detroit (AL) vs. Philadelphia (NL) at Clearwater, Fla. St. Louis (NL) vs. New York (AL) at St. Petersburg, Fla. Philadelphia (AL) vs. Washington (NL) at Orlando, Fla.

TV Policy Is Adopted By Big Ten

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—Big Ten athletic directors, with full support of conference presidents, Friday voted to adopt a regional football television plan for presentation to the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. with the attitude it be approved "or else."

The directors indicated that this was a final stand on TV policy and that if adoption by the NCAA was not forthcoming, a split from that national organization might follow. They presented this 1954 TV program:

"A. The nation shall be divided into geographical regions, whose boundaries would follow lines of regional and/or national groupings of the colleges."

"B. Member institutions shall be permitted to televise their football games in accordance with either but not both of the following methods:

"(1. Any games may be televised on a station or stations located within the region in which the games are being played, except that no institution's teams shall be televised more than once at home and once away during the season; or

"(2. Any games, except those played on Saturday between the last weekend in September and the weekend preceding Thanksgiving Day, inclusive, may be televised by stations both within and outside the region in which the game is being played, but no institution's teams shall be so televised more than once during the regular season."

"Basically, what our program amounts to is live television each Saturday of a Big Ten game to be selected by the sponsor and beamed to a seven-state midwest section.

"Blackout areas, when such games are televised, would have to be determined later by the Big Ten TV committee, to the mutual satisfaction of all involved."

"Such a TV program, as any sponsor can see, would preclude any national televised games of no interest to the midwest."

With such a policy as this, it was reported, if the NCAA failed to adopt it, the Big Ten feels strong enough to go out on its own accord with its own television program.

It was conjectured whether such a cleavage would result in the Big Ten being forced to relinquish its NCAA standing. One of the Big Ten plums of the season is the Rose Bowl game between Big Ten and Pacific Coast Conference teams. The spokesman said it was possible that disapproval of the season program, by the NCAA could be construed to affect Rose Bowl television.

At the same time, the spokesman said intercollegiate games between the Big Ten and Pacific Coast Conference teams might be televised as regional "games of the week."

Brooklyn (NL) vs. Milwaukee (NL) at Miami, Fla. There will be more than average interest in some of the games. Brooklyn, the National League champion, for instance, will be host to Milwaukee, its persistent runner-up of last year, in the inaugural at Miami. And at Tampa, the New York Yankees will be playing their springtime crosstown rivals, the St. Louis Cardinals.

It was the Cardinals who purchased Vic Raschi, ace pitcher, from the Yankees in the biggest surprise of the young season 10 days ago when Raschi and his erstwhile bosses couldn't get together on terms.

Baltimore makes its return to the majors official by playing the Chicago Cubs. Jimmy Dykes, former manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, will be guiding the fledgling Orioles. The Cubs may unfurl a new second baseman combination of Gene Baker and Ernie Banks.

Manager Casey Stengel of the Yankees had to revise his pitching for the opener Friday when Fwell Blackwell, former National League all-star right hander, retired. Blackwell, who came to the Yanks in August of 1952 for an estimated $75,000, stepped out because of a sore arm that also had plagued him last year.

The Boston Red Sox will meet Pittsburgh while the services of their outfield star, Ted Williams, who stumbled and fell while trying to catch a fly ball Monday and broke his shoulder. Williams isn't expected to get into the lineup until after the regular season begins April 13.

Brooklyn fans gained hope for a third straight pennant with the return of pitcher Don Newcombe after two years in the Army. Big Don was a 20-game winner in 1951.

In addition to Dykes, there will be three other new managers. Strangely enough, none has had previous experience as a big league boss.

Walt Alston has replaced Charles Dresen at Brooklyn, Alston coming to the Dodgers from Montreal. Birdie Tebbetts is the new leader of the Cincinnati Reds. He previously directed Indianapolis of the American Association. Eddie Joost, veteran shortstop, succeeded Dykes at Philadelphia. An injured knee may keep him off the playing field.

Hoosiers Put To Final Test In Loop Race

CHICAGO (AP)—Indiana must defeat Illinois tonight or risk a defense of its National Collegiate Athletic Assn. basketball title on the luck of the draw against Illinois and Iowa.

The Hoosiers (11-2) can capture the Big Ten crown and an automatic berth in the NCAA tourney by beating the Illini (10-3) in crucial finale at Bloomington, Ind.

However, an Illinois victory would produce a three-way championship deadlock between Illinois, Indiana and Iowa, each with an 11-3 record. Iowa already has completed its regular season.

In event of such a tie, Big Ten athletic directors meeting at Champaign, Ill., Friday decided, a drawing will be held Sunday to determine which team will represent the conference in the NCAA regional tourney at Iowa City March 12.

Thus, the 63-game conference campaign which started Jan. 2 will be wrapped up in 40 minutes of high-pressure play on the Hoosier court.

It marks the only 1954 meeting between the two schools whose star centers, Don Schluht of Indiana and Johnny Kerr of Illinois, will hook up in a duel which will settle the individual scoring championship as well as their respective teams' title aspirations.

Schluht, 6-10, is the league's top scorer with 12-game average of 27.2. The 6-9 Kerr has averaged 26.3 points, also in 13 games. In total points, Schluht is ahead by 12-point margin, 354 to 342.

Illinois faces Indiana owning an eight-game winning streak, while the Hoosiers suffered their only two conference losses in their last five games. However, the Hoosiers demonstrated in their 84-68 victory over Ohio State last Saturday they accounted for defeats by Northwestern and Iowa within a 10-day period.

Virtually unnoticed, except by partisan fans, Michigan (3-10) appears at Michigan State (3-10) and Wisconsin (6-7) visits Minnesota (9-4) to complete Saturday night's closing conference program.

In other midwestern action Saturday night, Notre Dame and Bradley have final tuneups before starting NCAA tourney play next Tuesday. Notre Dame is at Marquette and Bradley is host to Tulsa. Notre Dame's first NCAA foe at Fort Wayne, Ind. Loyola of New Orleans. Bradley meets Oklahoma City at Peoria, Ill.

1,200 See Mudecas Volley Ball Meet

ADAMS—A crowd of 1,200, the largest crowd in the history of the Mudecas Girls' Volley Ball tourney, watched the semifinal matches here Friday night.

In the most thrilling game of the evening, Filley edged Adams, 22-21, in a Class D game.

Filley will meet Unadilla, a 26-15 winner over Lewiston, in the finals tonight.

In other Friday night semifinal matches, Barneston romped into the Class A finals with a 31-19 win over Bennet and Burr beat Palmyra, 24-21. Barneston and Burr will meet tonight for the Class A title.

Lancaster County Names '54 Assistant Assessors

Lancaster County Assessor Arthur Davis has named the assistant assessors for the 46 city districts and 26 rural precincts for the 1954 assessment period.

Most are reappointments, but two new rural assistants and 17 new city assistants were named. Two additional city districts were created in the adjustment of city districts for population and area growth, Davis said.

The assistant assessors will meet next Tuesday at the Courthouse for instructions and supplies, Davis said.

Gov. Robert Crosby is expected to address the county's assistant assessors on "Operation Honesty" at that time and the County Commissioners have indicated they will also talk with them.

During the March 10 to April 20 assessment period, the assistant assessors will return about 33,000 city schedules and 7,000 rural.

They will be paid 45 cents per city schedule (raised this year) and $1.25 per rural schedule.

Three business assessors handle the approximately 3,000 business schedules, and are paid a flat rate for their work which runs into May.

NSEA Continuing Campaign Against Appointive Board Of Lands And Funds

The Nebraska State Education Association is continuing its campaign opposing a constitutional amendment providing that members of the State Board of Educational Lands and Funds shall be appointed by the governor.

The proposal, which will be on the ballot in November, if adopted, would replace the present system of an ex-officio board composed of state officials. It was approved by the 1953 Legislature for submission to the voters.

Seven Reasons

Reasons for retention of the present board are set forth in the current issue of the Nebraska Education News. They include:

1. The present board is composed of elected state officials who represent the state at large.
2. A board administering a state trust should not be subject to political pressures of a single appointing official.
3. A change in personnel will not change the services of the present ex-officio members, who would be continued by an appointive board.
4. Under terms of the amendment, all members could be appointed from one geographic area and not represent thinking of the entire state.
5. The proposed board would be an added governmental expense.
6. Administration of the school retirement system is vested in the board. Teachers prefer state officials to administer the system.
7. Under the present system, members of the board are the governor, secretary of state, treasurer, attorney-general and state superintendent of public instruction. The treasurer is custodian of the funds; attorney-general, legal adviser; and state superintendent, professional adviser.

The article states: "The present board has consistently followed the policy of maximum return from the school lands consistent with best conservation practices and justice to the leaseholder. An appointive board can do no better."

School Fund

The board is responsible for the sale, leasing and general management of all school lands.

The state owns approximately 1,600,000 acres of school lands. The board also administers a $14,000,000 permanent school fund.

Donald Kline, executive secretary of the NSEA, said the amendment grew out of a Supreme Court decision which required that school lands be put up at auction according to law.

The Nebraska Legislative Council committee on school land leases in September 1952 issued a report in which it recommended a land management type of administration.

This was turned down by the 1953 Legislature, Kline said, and the amendment for an appointive board adopted instead.

The NSEA campaign in opposition opened when the Delegate Assembly adopted a recommendation opposing the amendment. The recommendation was made by the structure and support committee of the assembly headed by Dr. Harry A. Burke of Omaha.

NSEA Continuing Campaign Against Appointive Board Of Lands And Funds

The Nebraska State Education Association is continuing its campaign opposing a constitutional amendment providing that members of the State Board of Educational Lands and Funds shall be appointed by the governor.

The proposal, which will be on the ballot in November, if adopted, would replace the present system of an ex-officio board composed of state officials. It was approved by the 1953 Legislature for submission to the voters.

Seven Reasons

Reasons for retention of the present board are set forth in the current issue of the Nebraska Education News. They include:

1. The present board is composed of elected state officials who represent the state at large.
2. A board administering a state trust should not be subject to political pressures of a single appointing official.
3. A change in personnel will not change the service of the present ex-officio members of the board.
4. Services of the present ex-officio members of the board would be continued by an appointive board.
5. Under terms of the amendment, all members could be appointed from one geographic area and not represent thinking of the entire state.
6. The proposed board would be an added governmental expense.
7. Administration of the school retirement system is vested in the board. Teachers prefer state officials to administer the system.

Under the present system, members of the board are the governor, secretary of state, state treasurer, attorney-general and state superintendent of public instruction. The treasurer is custodian of the funds; attorney-general, legal adviser; and state superintendent, professional adviser.

The article states: "The present board has consistently followed the policy of maximum return from the school lands consistent with best conservation practices and justice to the leaseholder. An appointive board can do no better."

School Fund

The board is responsible for the sale, leasing and general management of all school lands.

The state owns approximately 1,600,000 acres of school lands. The board also administers a $14,000,000 permanent school fund.

Donald Kline, executive secretary of the NSEA, said the amendment grew out of a Supreme Court decision which required that school lands be put up at auction according to law.

The Nebraska Legislative Council committee on school land leases in September 1952 issued a report in which it recommended a land management type of administration.

This was turned down by the 1953 Legislature, Kline said, and the amendment for an appointive board adopted instead.

The NSEA campaign in opposition opened when the Delegate Assembly adopted a recommendation opposing the amendment. The recommendation was made by the structure and support committee of the assembly headed by Dr. Harry A. Burke of Omaha.
